VOL. XCVIII—No. 127 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 17, 1969 PRICE TEN CENTS

St. Pat's Day --- Area Celebrates

KINGSTON

Tis the day for the wearin' of the green and everybody suddenly becomes Irish on the 17th of March. The Ides are past and the gaiety of St. Patrick's Day infects them all.

A Proud Lot

The Irish of Ulster are a proud lot be they in Northern Ireland Ulster or the descendants of the early builders of Ulster, New York, U.S.A. Although the Dutch are the traditional founders of this Ulster County, the Irish played a big part in the development of the early economy of the area.

Historian Carl Carmer in his book, The Hudson, recounts the early, burly days of Rosendale and the cement industry so vital to the era of Rondout supremacy. The Irish granite artisans came down from Vermont to work in the cement mines. The workaday Irish just over on the boat and doing the menial chores were considered of a lower cut. The feuding between the two Irish factions would on many a hard-drinking Saturday night erupt into a broken-head brawl worthy of mention in historic accounts.

The Irish settled Wilbur and Port Ewen to be near the boat industry of the early days. They settled Jockey Hill in the Sawkill area to be near the bluestone trade and they moved back into the Phoenicia mountains to be near the trout streams so like their native Erin Isle.

The D&H canalers like the Erie bargemen were predominately Irish. Coopers who made the barrels for the Rosendale cement were from the old sod as were many of the brick industry's early hod carriers.

Where ever they settled in this Ulster County the Irish, driven from the homeland by famine and privation found work of sorts, contributing to the life of the community.

Corned Beef and Green

Today the smell of corned beef cooking and the wearing of the bright green tie are the order of the day.

A lot of the essence of St. Patrick's Day has gone with the assimulation of the Irish as an ethnic group. No more the immigrant sandhog, bricklayer, cement miner or bargeman, the Irish had a president, prestige and a bankroll, all making St. Patrick's Day unnecessary as a cultural identification.

Yet the parades go off as scheduled down Fifth Avenue with the green tie to remind one of the early immigrant — green and eager to find the streets of gold.

Parading Irish abound in the major cities of this country today and hundreds of Americans are on hand for the St. Patrick's Day parade in Dublin. The biggest single group of Hibernians returning to the homeland for the march was a 200-strong unit from Albany. Prominent marchers in Dublin were Bobby Shriver, 14, and his sister Maria, 13, whose mother is Mrs. Sargent Shriver, sister of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Locally, there is no green stripe down Broadway and no parade scheduled. However, Irish flags flying atop the Broadway hill in James Gilpatric tradition guarantee the day will not go unmarked.

City historian Harry Rigby has noted that any Irishman living in Ulster County should be right at home between Orange and Greene, referring to our neighbors in New York State, north, and south. Although the order is reversed from the old country, it seems to make for a winning combination.

Worst Air Disaster-- At Least 150 Killed

MARACAIBO, Venezuela (UPI)—Investigators dug the flight recorder from the wreckage of a Viasa DC9 jetliner and began today the task of determining what caused aviation's worst disaster. The plane smashed through a Maracaibo suburb spewing flaming fuel and killed at least 150 persons Sunday

All 83 persons aboard the Miami-bound Venezulan airliner, including 47 Americans, apparently were killed, Viasa officials said. Most passengers were still strapped into their seats when firemen reached the scene.

At least 67 persons in the suburb of La Coruba died when the airliner plunged from the sky into their neighborhood at 11:47 a.m., just two minutes after taking off from Grano de Oro Airport.

Gallons of flaming flight fuel spewed from the plane's split skeleton and turned the residential area into an inferno.

Hospitals mobilized for the disaster said 125 other persons, many in critical condition with severe burns, shock and broken bones, were treated throughout the city.

The Anatomical Hospital was converted into a morgue. Relatives, friends and authorities grimly moved among the bodies attempting identification.

Rescue workers sifting the plane's wreckage and five square blocks of burned, splintered homes around it feared still more bodies would be found.

"We are living a national catastrophe," said the governor of Zulia State, Elio Suarez Romero, who rushed to the scene with other national officials. They proclaimed Maracaibo a disaster area.

The U.S. Embassy said 15 Americans definitely were aboard the plane but airline officials listed 47 U.S. citizens as passengers. Two passengers were Latin American baseball players en route to spring training with minor league clubs in the United States. Others were returning to the Midwest from a Caracas convention of the Clark Equipment Co. of Battle Creek, Mich.

The craft, falling at more than 100 miles an hour, crushed homes, buses, cars and trucks, splintered trees and utility poles and sprayed ignited fuel over a wide area upon impact. Witnesses said the plane just missed a movie theater.

Rescuers found one family of five crushed around a table where they were eating lunch. In another home, national guardsmen found the bodies of two children clutching the scorched remains of a dog.

Before Sunday's crash, the worst toll in a commercial airlines incident was 134 dead Dec. 16, 1960, when two planes collided over New York City. The collision killed 128 persons in the air and falling debris killed six on the ground.

The highest death count for a single-plane accident occurred Feb. 4, 1966, when an All-Nippon Airways Boeing 707 plunged into Tokyo Bay and killed 133 persons.

VICTIMS — Venezuelan National Guardsmen try to keep crowds away from the shroud-covered bodies of victims of the crash of a Viasa Airlines DC-9 jetliner in Maracaibo. 'Significant Statement' To Follow GOP Meeting

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Ward W. Ingalsbe Jr., chairman of the Kingston Republican Committee, told The Freeman today that he expects to issue a "significant statement" after Tuesday's meeting of the city committee at the Ulster County Courthouse.

'Pre-Convention' Meeting

Ingalsbe described the meeting, set for 8 p. m., as "a sort of pre-convention meeting, a chance for all of us to get together and discuss the candidates and the issues." Ingalsbe noted that the original convention date had been March 18 (tomorrow) and that many committeemen had made plans to meet on that date before it was switched to the 24th.

The agenda will include a review of ward candidates and at-large hopefuls, such as mayor, alderman-at-large and city judge. "We've got some excellent candidates for aldermen," Ingalsbe said. "There's also a number of well qualified at-large candidates. I hope we can get together on them."

Those at-large candidates include John R. Mayone, former city chairman; Clifford V. Bunting, an uptown businessman and James J. Tyrrell, operations manager of a local radio station. Those three have declared but the committeemen will be equally concerned with two men who have not declared but are considered strong potential candidates, Lawrence A. Quilty, a Kingston insurance executive and Melvin Mones, a county legislator and druggist.

Quilty Still Mulling

Quilty said today that he is still "seriously considering" running for mayor. Mones, reportedly, has made a decision not to run for either mayor or alderman-at-large. Both are expected to announce their decisions at tomorrow night's meeting.

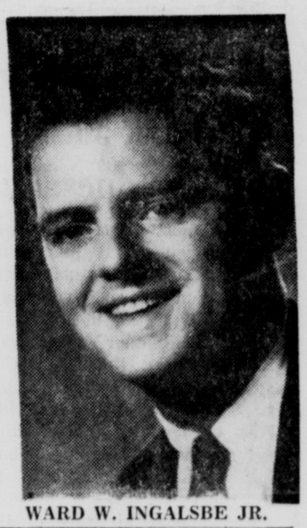

Efforts were made over the weekend to get Mones to run as alderman-at-large with Quilty since Mones is apparently not a candidate for mayor under any conditions. It is felt in some sectors of the Republican party that a Quilty-Mones ticket would be the strongest the party could offer. Reportedly, Mones is not interested in alderman-at-large either, and will run for another term as a county legislator.

The Freeman has also learned that the Republicsns will make an all-out effort to secure Conservative party support for all its candidates. Last year the Conservatives withheld their support from the Republicans and that proved significant in at least three wards, the Third, where Republican Emile Taiclet lost a close election to Joseph Conlin with 100 Conservative votes going to Robert Phinney and the Fourth and 13th Wards where Republicans ran without Conservative support and lost close elections.

It is expected that Republicans in two of those wards, Titus (Bernie) Sims of the 13th and Peter C. Fisher of the Fourth, will be candidates this year.

Several Mentioned

A number of names are under consideration for the city wide posts of alderman-at-large and judge. Possibilities include Raymond Armater and James Martin for alderman-at-large and Frank Campochiaro and Edward T. Feeney for city judge.

Village Status Off Rosendale Ballot

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE

Investigations by the Village of Rosendale revealed over the weekend that the question of the incorporated status of the village cannot be placed on Tuesday's ballot. Mayor Joseph S. Reid today said the village had been informed by the Conference of Mayors that a petition must be initiated by the taxpayers before a vote could be taken.

After hearing of the technicality discovered over the weekend, his opponent in this week's election, William P. Curran, called it a "legal goof" on the part of Reid. Curran said the question of incorporation had been used to cover "the real issue.. reckless spending."

Reid said a "technicality" had been exposed after consulting with the Albany office of the conference. The question now must be deferred until a special vote later in the year or until the next general election for a trustee post in 1970.

The trustees had approved a proposition on the question to be placed on the ballot in Tuesday's election of mayor, trustee and village justice. It would have asked the voters to decide on whether to hold a special election on the incorporated status later in the year.

Called Money Saver

The Democratic mayor had contended that duplications occur in the operation of the village and the Town of Rosendale and said that a merger between the two would be a major money saver.

Reid said the village status question was being investigated by the trustees for any such technicality, as was discovered since Friday, and that the research meant weeding through the myriad sections of the New York State Village Law.

He said a huddle with the office of the Conference of Mayors showed the problem and he said that was "the final determination."

A petition must now be presented to the trustees on the issue and village voters would then have to decide to stay incorporated or to dissolve. Reid noted that now only one vote would have to be taken, while two were felt required if the issue had remained on the ballot this week.

Reid has favored the proposition since shortly after taking office in 1967.

He began the basic work on the proposition then, with the contention that the administrations of the town and village could function more efficiently as one rather than two bodies.

In commenting on the problem, Republican Curran said the issue was being used to hide the real problem of the village "financial irresponsibility and deficit spending." Curran said the proposition has created a "which hand do you watch" situation.

He said the financial condition of the village verged "on a collision course with bankruptcy." Curran added: "never before in the history of the Village of Rosendale have we owed so much money."

He said Reid is running a program of "deficit spending" and that the mayor had not shown the complete picture in a recently published financial statement.

Curran said there are "no personalities" as issues in the race for village mayor. The "real issues," he said, deal with money matters.

SURVIVAL—Survivors of the sunken Liberian freighter "Vainquer" struggle up a ladder from their lifeboat, to board the USS Hyman. The destroyer Hyman, with a crew of weekend reservists aboard, picked up 24 survivors of the "Vainquer" which exploded and sank in the Gulf of Mexico enroute from Vera Cruz and brought them to New Orleans. Dye Will Cast Pitch For the Primary Nod

By LYNN MULVANEY

TOWN OF KINGSTON

Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye, County Legislator from the Second District has called a meeting of Town of Kingston Republicans Tuesday to "discuss my record and discuss county issues."

Dye, defeated last week in his bid for the Republican nomination to be a candidate in the November election, has already stated he will go into the June Primary if he does not get the nomination at the unofficial county convention to be held next week.

The Town of Kingston lawmaker went into a primary successfully two years ago when the party failed to nominate him at that time.

Basic Committee

Dye said that the purpose of Tuesday's meeting will be to set up a basic committee for this June's Primary and to appeal to the citizens in behalf of his bid for the convention nomination. Saying he would explain to those present what has happened in connection with his candidacy, Dye said he plans to also tell "what the convention is about and what the primary is about."

Dye blames his recent defeat on the fact that the Town of Kingston has only two committeemen opposed to large blocs of committeemen in the Towns of Ulster and Hurley, whom he claims each wanted two candidates from their towns.

At last week's district caucus, three of five incumbent legislators received the nomination: Richard Nace and Lester C. Elmendorf of Ulster and Robert Kelder of Marbletown.

The 36 committeemen also chose former Board of Supervisor Chairman, Charles Relyea and Louis Hall, both of Hurley as candidates. This left Dye incumbent Frank Miller of Hurley forced to enter the primary if they want to be candidates.

Out of the seven candidates, Nace received all 36 votes, Elmendorf, 35; Kelder, 34; Relyea, 33 and Hall 30. Dye was given seven votes and Miller, five. When asked if his defeat might possibly stem from last year's primary contest for the Assembly in which the party was split in its choice of candidates between H. Clark Bell and Peter J. Savago, Dye said he did not feel it was a factor.

Concluding that his chances for the nomination at the county convention are slim, Dye begins preparation for the primary with tomorrow night's meeting.

Highland Legion To Mark 50th Fete Wednesday

Lloyd Post 193 of the American Legion in Highland has planned a 50th anniversary celebration for Wednesday, March 19, starting at 8 p.m.

Post Commander Vernon Ronk in announcing the celebration said that former Dutchess County Sheriff C. Fred Close has been engaged to be the principal speaker. Close is a member of Lafayette Post 37 in Poughkeepsie.

The annual birthday of the American Legion is March 15-17, the date of the first caucus held in 1919 when the organization was formed. Thus the timing of this year's birthday celebration of the American Legion is scheduled for this week. However, with St. Patrick's Day being observed today, the Legion birthday date is being held over two extra days in planning its celebration.

Commander Ronk said that at the conclusion of the program a buffet dinner will be served by the Ladies Auxiliary of Unit 193, Lloyd Post.

All Legionnaires throughout Ulster County are being invited.

The Modified ABM Decision

Two Defense Cases for Laird

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird twice this week must defend before Congress President Nixon's decision on the modified antiballistic missile (ABM) system.

While the lawmakers prepared for their first crack at questioning the new plan, initial soundings indicated the proposal will win eventual approval—easily in the House, more closely in the Senate.

Laird's first appearance will come Wednesday at a private session of the Senate Armed Services Committee, a panel generally friendly to the ABM idea. The second will be Friday in a public hearing before the much more critical Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Nixon's ABM proposal envisions deployment of defense missiles around offensive missile sites in the United States. The defensive missiles would guard the offensive missiles in order to guarantee the nation could strike back against any country that attacked with a wave of nuclear missiles. Nixon's so-called "Safeguard" system would also offer "some" protection for cities from a relatively crude type of attack that might come from Communist China.

The ABM plan is wrapped up in at least four separate bills, so Congress will get at least four chances to vote on it. It looked as though the plan would sail through the House with little difficulty, but the question was a bit tighter in the Senate. "Safeguard" was expected to have a better chance than its predecessor, "Sentinel," in the Senate, however.

Even before the hearings began, Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard began lofting some of the arguments for the system. In a television appearance Sunday (Issues and Answers—ABC) Packard said the ABM could not be used "without the authority of the President."

He also said the Soviet Union does not appear to be "concerned" over the ABM plan but he warned the Soviets are continuing to add "very large missiles with very large warheads" to their arsenal. He added the administration could continue to spend money defending the country and "still do . . . other things" in the area of domestic social programs.

Local Congressman Continues Fight for the Farmer Monies

KINGSTON — In a continuing battle for release of $25 million in operating loan funds for the Farmers Home Administration Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-28, N. Y.) today wired President Nixon calling for White House help.

Today's wire followed a letter sent last week by Congressman Fish requesting the fund release. According to Representative Fish the money appropriated by Congress and held by the Bureau of the Budget is badly needed for operating loans for area farmers.

In a bid to get results Congressman Fish won the backing of 10 other New York State Republican congressmen in making the request today. Signing the wire to the president along with Congressman Fish were Congressmen Seymour Halpern of Flushing, Martin B. McKneally of Newburgh, Daniel Button of Albany, Carleton J. King of Saratoga Springs, Robert C. McEwen of Ogdensburg, Alexander Pirnie of New Hartford, Howard W. Robison of Owego, Frank J. Horton of Rochester and James F. Hastings of Allegheny.

The text of the wire follows:

Dear Mr. President:

The farmer in America is in trouble. In addition to continuing low income levels he now faces a credit crisis. The Farmers Home Administration has $11.1 million in approved emergency loans it cannot fund and 23 states have no operating loan funds. New York will by next week have exhausted its operating loan funds. We, members of the Republican congressional delegation of New York, urge you to release the $16 million to the emergency loan, and the $25 million to the operating loan fund that has been appropriated by the Congress and is being withheld by the Bureau of the Budget.

Bell Will Seek New Shifts In the Amended Taylor Law

KINGSTON — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, announced today he will seek further amendments to the Taylor Law, recently amended to provide tougher penalties against striking governmental employes and their unions. Bell says the Taylor Law as amended does not carry enough sanctions against governmental employes who do not negotiate in good faith and engage in improper practices.

"In order to develop relative social stability in the field of governmental employer-employe labor relations, New York needs a balanced approach," Bell said adding, "strikes by public employes can not be tolerated. This is the public policy of the State of New York. However, public employes and their unions must be given the opportunity to participate in mediation and fact finding procedures to resolve contract impasses before positions become hardened. This opportunity must be real, meaningful and backed up by proper sanctions against public employers who refuse or neglect to negotiate in good faith or to honor properly negotiated agreements or engage in improper practices," Bell said.

At the beginning of this session Bell introduced amendments to the Taylor Law calling for the imposition of unlimited fines against striking public employe unions, unlimited suspension of dues check-off privileges and the granting of the right to any tax payer to bring an action compelling enforcement of the Taylor Law penalties if the public official charged with enforcement fails to act. All of these amendments are included in the newly enacted Taylor Law.

Bell also introduced an amendment which would compell public employers to show cause in Supreme Court why agreements approved by proper action should not be enforced and why public employers should not be directed to cease and desist from engaging in improper practices under the penalties of court contempt and affirmative injunctive relief.

Fish Backs Move for New Pollution Curb Agency

KINGSTON — Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., joined in introducing a joint resolution creating a Mid-Atlantic States Air Pollution Control Commission as an intergovernmental federal-state agency.

"The States of New York and New Jersey have already enacted a Mid-Atlantic States Air Pollution Control compact which is substantially the same as the resolution I have joined in introducing today. The plan is for the creation of an intergovernmental, federal-state agency for the control of air pollution in our mid-Atlantic region.

"In the past few years it has become abundantly clear that any meaningful attack on air pollution must be by areas larger than one state alone. This resolution is in answer to that need," Congressman Fish said.

Members on the commission will consist of the governors of the states involved acting ex-officio, and one commissioner to be appointed by the president to serve during the term of the office of the president who appointed him. Members of the commission or their alternates will serve without compensation but will be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties. The commission is charged with the investigation of causes and sources of air pollution, will identify air contaminants, and provide for research in the entire field of air pollution.

Israeli Jets Slam Four Jordan Areas

By United Press International

Israeli jets attacked three Jordanian border areas today with rockets, napalm and machinegun fire, military spokesmen in Amman reported.

The Jordanians said four attacking Israeli jets caused no casualties but damaged crops in the strikes near the Sea of Galilee.

There was no immediate comment from Israeli officials on the Jordanian report.

Earlier in Amman, Jordanian spokesmen said Israeli air and artillery attacks destroyed automobiles and trucks over the weekend. Arab guerrillas said they shot down eight Israeli planes over the weekend—a report not confirmed elsewhere.

In Amman, the spokesmen announcing today's action said: "At 8:10 a.m., two Israeli Ouragan fighters raided the al-Adassiyah Area, three miles southeast of the Sea of Gallilee, using rockets, napalm bombs and machineguns.

"At 9:10 a.m., two other Israeli jets of the (French-built) Super Mystere type raided the areas of al-Manshiyah, eight miles south of the sea, and northern ash-Shuna, six miles south of the sea, using rockets and machineguns.

"Our antiaircraft engaged them and the aerial bombardment lasted intermittently until 9:30 a.m. There were no casualties in lives but some damage was caused to the crops in the target areas."

Jordan said seven persons were killed and 16 wounded in the air raids Sunday.

In Jerusalem today, Israeli security forces said they destroyed four houses whose occupants were involved in Arab guerrilla activities.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli Premier-designate Mrs. Golda Meir was ready to seek a vote of confidence for her new government today.

In Cairo, the authoritative newspaper Al Ahram said Egyptians were seeking new air raid shelters in garages and basements.

Tension ran highest in Jordan. Arab spokesmen said 18 Israeli planes launched the three-wave rocket and napalm attack early Sunday, and that Israeli ground forces followed with a 40-minute artillery and mortar barrage across the Jordan River cease-fire line after nightfall.

Ray's Judge Puzzled

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The judge who received James Earl Ray's guilty plea says a number of questions about the Martin Luther King assassination were left outstanding. But he doubts that a trial by jury would have cleared the air.

These views were expressed in an interview Sunday by Judge W. Preston Battle of Criminal Court, who last week sentenced Ray to 99 years in prison.

Meanwhile Ray's lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston, Tex., reiterated in a television interview his belief that "no other person, organization or group except James Earl Ray was concerned in the killing."

Judge Battle remarked in his interview, "There has been much talk of a conspiracy, but no one saying so has yet produced a single shred of evidence or named an associate or conspirator."

The judge said he is himself puzzled by a number of questions:

"I would truly like to know how Ray actually found the spot from which to fire. How did Ray know where Rev. King would be? How did he determine the type of weapon to be used? What are the details of the actual purchase and selection of the weapon? Was he alone in surveillance of the Lorraine Motel?

"Most puzzling of all is his escape from Memphis. To me, it seems miraculous that he was able to flee to Atlanta despite the all-points bulletins without his white Mustang being spotted on a highway."

Chinese Shelled, Soviets Disclose

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russians rallied in factories and schools across the Soviet Union today to protest the latest border battle with Communist China. The Soviets disclosed for the first time they had shelled Chinese positions in repelling the "raiders."

Peking mocked the Soviet leaders as "mad dogs" and vowed they would be destroyed.

Soviet students and workers massed to hear accounts of how a handful of "heroic" Soviet border guards held off 3,000 attacking Chinese Saturday on Damansky Island, a tiny disputed piece of land on the Ussuri River frontier east of Manchuria.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, announced today the Soviets had used a "powerful artillery barrage" against "numerous" Chinese gun positions, then followed up with a swift counterattack "to sweep the raiders off Damansky Island."

It was believed the largest clash between the two Communist giants. Although no official casualties were announced, reports reaching Moscow said the Soviet toll was high. Damansky fighting March 2 left 31 Soviet troops dead and cost the Chinese untold casualties.

"Although the Soviet revisionists continue to act like ferocious wild animals, they really are paper tigers," Peking radio said. "We shall hunt them down and destroy them . . . the new czars of Russia will suffer disgraceful defeat . . ."

No immediate formal protests were reported, although the March 2 fighting brought indignant notes from both sides and resulted in demonstrations by thousands outside the other country's embassy in Moscow and Peking.

GOP Aims for Vote This Week On $6.4 Billion State Budget

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature's Republican leaders struggled today to iron out snags in their plan to bring a trimmed version of Gov. Rockefeller's $6.4 billion budget to a vote this week and thus propel the 1969 session to a pre-Easter adjournment.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. and Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Brydges conferred at length with their fiscal advisors Sunday night but were unable to forge the agreement they had expected.

After the closed-door meeting, the leaders went from the Capitol to talk things over with Rockefeller at the Executive Mansion.

Spokesmen for Brydges and Duryea said their timetable had been changed—instead of unveiling their fiscal product Monday afternoon, they now hoped to do so on Tuesday.

Their problem, sources said, was in resolving Senate-Assembly conflicts over the best way of cutting the "state purposes" section of the budget, the funds allocated to run the state government itself.

Plan for Schools

They had reached a basic accord last week on he major problem—how to ease the impact of Rockefeller's proposed five per cent "economy" cutback from normally higher levels of state aid for education.

What they decided to do was to rescue school districts from any diminishment in aid during the last three months of the school year—April through June — by reducing their allocation from July on. This would be accomplished by putting into effect in July various state - aid formula revisions that Rockefeller had proposed for the ensuing state fiscal year.

Cutting the state purposes section of the budget was presumed to present no serious difficulty. But the staffs of the Senate Finance Committee and the Assembly Ways and Means Committee had different ideas about what specific cuts to substitute for the five per cent, across-the-board slash advocated by the governor.

The exercise was complicated further by word from Rockefeller that he would not take kindly to some of the staff suggestions. Thus, the leaders decided to confer with the governor.

Meanwhile, as the Senate and Assembly prepared to convene for the start of another working week, there were these developments:

—It was announced over the weekend that agreement had been reached to give the legislators a choice of two plans for decentralizing New York City's sprawling school system. The bills are modified versions of plans espoused by the City Board of Education and the State Board of Regents.

—State University Chancellor Samuel B. Gould endorsed an Assembly bill designed to curb violent demonstrations on college campuses in this state. The measure would require public and private institutions to adopt regulations that would insure maintenance of law and order.

Adjournment Drive

Brydges and Duryea still hoped to bring the revised budget to a vote this week, in an effort to clear the decks for an all-out adjournment drive.

The budget and the decentralization issue posed the major hurdles on adjournment, along with the questions of broadening the state's strict law against abortions and disciplining unruly college students.

Democrats were ready to battle the Republican majority's budget plan, because the GOP leadership has accepted Rockefeller's proposal to raise the state's sales tax from two to three cents on the dollar.

Democrats sought to forestall the sales-tax boost through an alternate budget-balancing plan they presented last week

Officer Remains Critical, Shot at Border by 2 Girls

OGDENSBURG, N.Y. (AP) — A 29-year-old U.S. Border Patrol officer remained in critical condition at A. Barton Hepburn Hospital here today after he was shot Sunday afternoon while interrogating two teen-aged Canadian girls.

The girls James Mee was questioning when he was wounded in the back were held in separate St. Lawrence County jails.

Paula Marie Collins, 19 — of Maitland, Ont., about seven miles to the southwest, on the opposite bank of the St. Lawrence River — was held in the county jail in Canton, south of here. City Judge John B. Leonard set bail at $10,000 on a charge of criminal possession of a dangerous weapon.

A younger girl, who was described by police as a patient at Kingston Psychiatric Hospital in Ontario, was held in the custody of the Ogdensburg City Police without being charged. Police said she was a minor.

Mee—who had questioned two girls late Sunday morning and then determined they had given him phony addresses — went searching for them. About two blocks from the Border Patrol's Customs House offices, he spotted them, in the McConville Hotel.

The girls slipped from sight when Mee — a seven - year veteran of the patrol who previously served along the Mexican border — turned to speak to someone else. He apprehended them shortly afternoon in nearby Morissette Park.

A reporter on the scene described both girls as "clean cut" —the younger dressed in slacks, a brown sweater and a leather coat and wearing her brown hair long.

Mee took the girls to the patrol offices. Chief Patrol Inspector Clifford Oviatt, in charge of the district border, said the details of the incident were not yet clear.

But, during the process of fingerprinting and interrogation, Mee was shot in the back with a .25-calibre Belgium-made automatic pistol.

A radio operator in another patrol office upstairs heard the shots and found his wounded colleague. The father of four was rushed to the hospital, where he underwent about two hours of emergency surgery. The bullet remained lodged in the side of his abdomen afterwards, a hospital spokesman said.

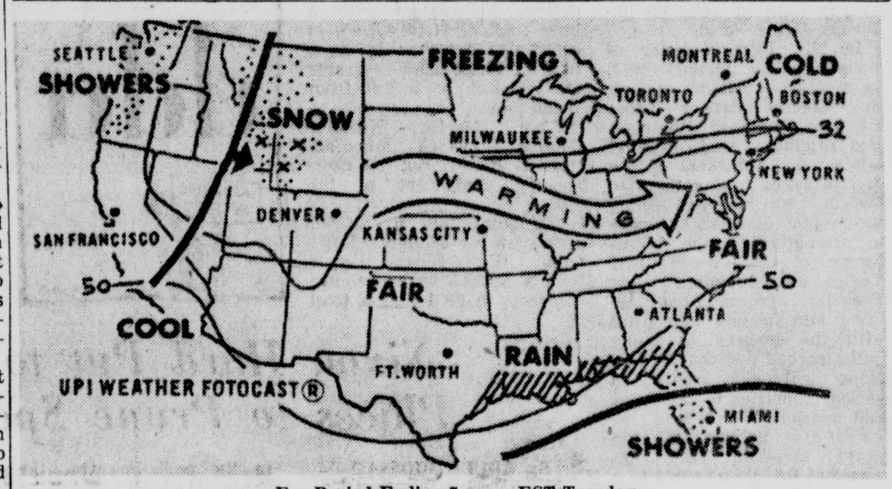

State Police erected roadblocks around this city of 16,000 —shaken last week when a teenager hung himself in a jail cell.

A block of Washington Street was sealed off when a resident spotted two girls entering his garage and called police. The youths surrendered to four officers after fleeing to another garage two doors away.

City Police Lt. David Bell — who headed the investigation until two Federal Bureau of Investigation agents arrived from Syracuse—said Miss Collins is accused of having the gun in her possession at the time of arrest. A preliminary hearing before Leonard was set for Tuesday.

Bell said she is a former patient of the Kingston institution.

The younger girl apparently had been given a weekend pass from Kingston, and the two had spent the night in Ogdensburg, police said.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 17, 1969

St. Patrick's Day

Today is St. Patrick's Day, the anniversary of the patron saint of Ireland. Many legends have grown in connection with this saint, who was loved everywhere he traveled. The "wearin' of the green" today signifies no creed or race as many other nationalities join in the festivities.

One of the better known of all the legends that surrounded St. Patrick's life is how he was responsible for the shamrock becoming the familiar Irish emblem. One day a group of his followers came to him and admitted that it was difficult for them to believe in the doctrine of the Holy Trinity. Plucking a leaf from the shamrock, St. Patrick held it before them, bidding them to behold this living example of this "three-in-one." The simple beauty of this explanation convinced these skeptics and from that day the shamrock has been revered throughout Ireland.

The Irish, who have become an important part of American life, look back to St. Patrick with characteristic affection because his undaunted courage and cheerfulness have been handed on to so many of his followers.

After the Moon, What?

One more stepping-stone—the third from last—has been firmly laid toward the moon by the flight of Apollo 9.

So spectacularly successful has been the progress of the moon program since the tragic fire in an Apollo capsule on the launch pad in January 1967 that the climaxing flight—the actual landing of the first men on the moon—could be achieved with Apollo 10, now being prepared for a lunar orbital mission in May.

To pull the giant rocket off the pad and revamp all its systems and components for a moon landing, however, would delay the launch until June. Since lift-off of Apollo 11 is scheduled for July, and since shaving one month off the moon "race" certainly does not warrant the slightest compromise with safety and absolute readiness, it is just as well that NASA has decided to leave the sequence as is.

Apollo 10 will further serve to check out the performance of the "Spider"—the lunar module—and orbital rendezvous maneuvers, communications and a host of other complex and essential systems.

If all goes well the United States will have realized with a year and a half to spare the goal announced in 1962 by President Kennedy to land a man on the moon by the end of the decade, which officially ends Dec. 31, 1970.

We are thus very shortly going to be faced with the question of what new worlds to conquer in space.

There are some who would just as soon wrap up the whole thing, declare the moon landing an excellent feat, and now get down to the business of applying all that money to more mundane goals, such as a cure for cancer of pollution or urban blight.

Others will argue for bigger and better programs, like a seven-year tour of the solar system or a manned landing on Mars.

We will, of course, take the middle road—continuing to send unmanned probes to the planents and perhaps begin the building of a permanent, manned, earth-orbiting station, among whose many functions could be the launching of more extended exploration missions to the moon.

The nation is not in the mood to invest another $30 billion in another grandiose space objective, but to disband and dismantle the skills and facilities which have cost so many billions to create would in the long run be the most wasteful kind of economizing.

We will not soon again witness anything so stirring as the first landing on the moon. A little of the excitement, a little of the sense of wonder will be forever lost when the last chapter of the Apollo saga is written.

But America—indeed, the entire human race—is in the space age to stay.

David Lawrence Says

Opposition Again Raised To U.S. Envoy at Vatican

WASHINGTON — President Nixon would like to appoint a personal representative to the Vatican, just as President Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1939. At that time more than 53 years had elapsed since a similar appointment had been made.

The mere mention by Mr. Nixon of the "possibility" of taking such a step has already produced some discussion as to the propriety of sending an envoy of the United States Government to the headquarters of the Roman Catholic Church.

Some spokesmen for Protestant denominations are contending that the Vatican is not actually a government but the seat of a church, and that the naming of an ambassador would not be justified and would infringe the doctrine of separation of church and state. The same criticisms were made in 1939 when President Roosevelt appointed, as his personal representative to the Vatican, Myron C. Taylor, an Episcopalian and retired head of the United States Steel Corporation. He served in Vatican City until January 1950, when he resigned.

When President Truman sought in 1951 to appoint General Mark Clark as a full-fledged ambassador to the Vatican; there was, however, objection in Congress. The nomination was withdrawn, and the question of diplomatic representation at the Vatican has not been raised since that time.

The argument for sending an envoy to the Vatican is that the United States government and the American people would benefit by the contact. Important information is available at the Vatican from all parts of the world. It could have a profound effect on American diplomacy.

When Myron Taylor was personal representative at the Vatican, he was able to supply the President of the United States with vital information about the events preceding World War II and what was happening in Europe after the outbreak of that conflict.

The United States has not really had enough contact with the churches of the world, and Mr. Nixon could set a precedent by having a personal representative not only at the Vatican but to maintain contact with the leaders of other religions. Also, there is no reason why a personal representative of the President shouldn't be disignated to attend meetings of the World Council of Churches, which has its headquarters in Geneva.

The Pope and the Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church are in close touch with what is going on in East Europe and in Latin-American countries, for example, and exercise an important influence on matters that are related to the maintenance of peace.

There are many ways in which the Catholic hierarchy are of help to governments, especially those of countries where Catholics are in the majority. The same holds true for the leaders of other religions in areas where a particular faith is predominant.

The simple truth is that the United States government has never paid enough attention to the importance of personal contact through diplomatic representatives who specialize in the field of religious influence in the world.

In Mr. Taylor's letter of resignation in January 1950, he recalled — without making any recommendation — that the late President Roosevelt had originally sent identical letters to the leaders of the Jewish faiths asking them to consult with him and throw the weight of their influence in strengthening the moral forces of the world. Mr. Taylor also mentioned that President Truman had advised him in 1947 to consult with the leaders of many faiths abroad and that he had made extended visits to various countries to carry out that mission.

Fifty-six nations of the world maintain fully accredited diplomatic representatives at the Vatican. Among the large countries; the United States, Russia, and Red China do not have legations or embassies at the Vatican.

Suggestions are being heard that the Pope may be of great help in peace efforts, both in Vietnam and the Middle East. Reports from various countries are received constantly by the Vatican, and these could furnish a valuable background.

Mr. Nixon's desire to send an envoy to the Vatican could again open up opportunities for better contact between the churches of the world and the American government. This could publicize the desire of the United States to strengthen its relations with all countries of the world, irrespective of their religions.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The day of Saint Patrick is upon us. He drove the snakes out of Ireland and put them on the walls of the alcoholic ward. The Bishops came from Innescorthy, Wexford; the Murphys from Farrenferris in Cork; the McSwiggens from County Mayo—God help us!

They were story tellers and laughers, all of them. Come to think of it, they were also pretty good with their dukes. All of them were proud of their heritage, and would drink to it on any occasion. Even on no occasion.

On the subject of drink, there was sharp division in the family. The men were all for it; the ladies were as violently opposed. Grandma called it "The creature of the devil —Satin himself." To the contrary, the men thought that booze in sufficient volume warded off evil spirits and brought serenity to the soul.

Once, my father was so serene that we took him out of Scandia's in Bogota and half carried him to Aunt Margaret's house. She told him he was a disgrace, and he smiled right through the lecture.

He got in bed and, in the morning, Aunt Margaret was shocked to learn that he was twice as loaded. He hadn't been out of the house and she wouldn't have a drop of the stuff on the premises if dear Saint Patrick himself had asked for it.

It required time to find out how Big John achieved this Patty's Day mircale. He had gotten out of bed in the middle of the night with a terrible thirst. Everyone was asleep, and he tottered into the kitchen knowing that nothing could save him. In the refrigerator, Aunt Margaret had an assortment of bottles of cold water for renegades who prefer to rust their pipes.

One had a Gilbey's Gin label, and dad decided that water from that one would be tastier than from the milk bottles. He was pleasantly surprised to find that the top had never been removed, and that real gin was inside. So, with silent thanks to St. Patrick and a toast labelled "Up the Irish!" he began to sip and think his way out of Margaret's pleasant prison.

Further investigation disclosed that, two years earlier, someone had brought that bottle back from a wedding reception and had placed it on a shelf in the back of the refrigerator in case a snake ever sneaked into the kitchen and bit someabody. My father insisted it was a mircale achieved by Ireland's patron saint. In appreciation, he joined St. Anthony's Guild and a few other Catholic charities and sents $2 to each when the mood was on him.

On another Saint Patrick's Day, I put on a Kelly green tie and decided to join the parade on Fifth Avenue. I hopped into a tavern to keep out of the cold at ten a.m. and I met a few spalpeens who were praising the saint at the top of their lungs. It is wrong for the Irish to fall in with other Irish because there is a tendency to boost of how well they are doing in the new country.

They bought drinks. I bought drinks. In an hour, we were lifelong buddies and I learned that I was a cousin, fourth removed, of the bartender, At noon I was so stiff they laid me across two tables without putting them together. Someone folded my hands and stuck a green carnation in them. Customers came in, took a startled look, and said: "Saints preserve us" and blessed themselves.

Spiritual revelations were always occurring on Saint Patrick's Day. In 1905, didn't a cop in a long coat get caught in St. Peter's Cemetery after it was locked for the night? And when he finally climbed the steep wall in terror, didn't he teeter between the spikes on top, jump, and was caught by the coattails hanging four feet off the ground? He was still there at daylight.

Don't talk to me about strange doings on this blessed day of all days. How about the time Tommy O'Connor was doing patrol duty, in 1911, at Holy Name Cemetery on St. Patrick's Day. With only a few boilermakers under his skin, mind you, didn't he stand with his helmet over his heart as a funeral procession arrived, and get knocked down by a horse-drawn hearse? On what other day in the whole Julian calendar could such rare and unprophesied events occur?

On this Saint Patrick's Day, I will spend my time with my family, sober except for a cold beer to go with the ham and cabbage and the hot English mustard. The last named item is the only traffic we have with the British . . .

Defense Contractors Conduct Powerful Lobby for the ABM

WASHINGTON — The public has heard a lot about the controversy over the anti-ballistic missile system. There has been Senate testimony by distinguished scientists, and publicity regarding meetings between President Nixon and his experts and members of Congress.

But the public hasn't known about the backstage lobbying by the big defense contractors who would get most of the $50 billion which the taxpayers will pay for the ABM when it is finally built.

These defense contractors have been very quiet and very skillful in their lobbying. But they have also been effective. Congress is not likely to stage an investigation of this lobbying. Too many fellow Congressmen would be involved.

However, here is a roll call of the bigger defense contractors who would profit from the ABM system and the amount of money they have been receiving from the Pentagone on other contracts.

The Bell Telephone Laboratories; the prime contractor for ABM, is part of the American Telephone and Telegraph which in 1968 was the sixth biggest defense contractor, receiving a total of $775,927,000 in prime contracts. Bell Laboratories' chief lobbyist on Capitol Hill is Ed Zillian, who has been forbidden to do any overt lobbying but has been available to answer questions, which sometimes takes the form of discreet persuasion.

The McDonnel - Douglas Company, which manufactures the Interceptor rocket to be used in the ABM system, is fifth among the defense contractors with a huge total of $1,100,837,000 in contracts, together with a total of $224,355,000 in grants for research as a gift from Uncle Sam.

The Martin - Narietta Company, which manufactures the Sprint rocket, another component of the ABM, is represented in Washington by a retired general, William "Bud" Quinn. His company got a total of $393,454,000 in defense contracts in 1968, plus a total of $172,844,000 in research grants.

General Electric; which produces the high frequency radar that tracks incoming warheads in space is the third biggest defense contractor in the United States and received the hugh total of $1,488,707,000 last year, and received the huge total of $573,889,000 for research.

More Participants in the Pie

Sperry-Rand, which developed the ABM computer system, is another big defense contractor, with a total of $447,197,000 last year. Sperry-Rand also gets from Uncle Sam for research a total of $46,867,000.

The Raytheon Company, which manufactures the radar that guides the ABM missiles to their targets, is another big defense contractor, receiving last year a total of $451,754,000 in defense contracts, plus a research gift of $111,812,000.

AVCO, which will participate in the ABM pie, received defense contracts last year totaling $583,684,000, plus $103,559,000 for research.

Hughes Aircraft, another participant in the ABM conglomeration of contractors, received $286,109,000 in contracts last year, plus $139,728,000 for research.

Radio Corporation of America, another participant in ABM, received $225,012,000 in defense contracts, plus $69,826,000 for research.

Other companies which would participate in the huge ABM budget include Block Engineering, Burroughs, Burndy, Control Data, Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, Sperry Gyroscope and Wheeler Laboratories. All had their financial interests at stake when they pulled wires behind the scenes on Capitol Hill.

Swallowing Little Business

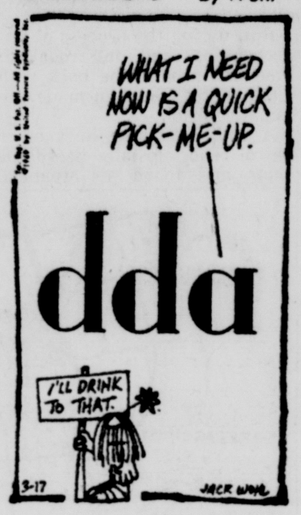

The Justice Department under the present Republican administration has been more forthright in enforcing the antitrust law than under the Democrats. Its recent warning against mergers was because defense contractors and other big corporations have been buying up smaller companies at a record rate; a total of 350 major mergers and acquisitions was announced in January alone.

Nearly all were so-called conglomerate mergers — in other words, mergers between firms engaged in different fields, by which big companies have geen gobbling up smaller, noncompeting firms. Technically this may not violate the antitrust laws, but it concentrates economic power in fewer hands. Thus the 200 largest corporations in the nation bought control of more than 70 companies last year.

There has been a dramatic increase in mergers since the election, on the assumption that the Nixon administration will be more tolerant toward big business. If the trend continues, a couple hundred business tycoons will be making the decisions that will determine the course of the American economy. Last year, 78 manufacturing companies worth one billion dollars controlled 43 per cent of the nation's manufacturing. The Justice Department has decided that these mergers must be stopped.

Meanwhile, the labor unions are also merging to increase their bargaining strength with the big conglomerates. The number of AFL-CIO unions dropped from 129 to 122 last year as a result of mergers, and several more union mergers are in the works.

Nixon Hard Put to Find Places to Prune Spending

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Only the most ruthless expense-cutting proposals are going to give President Nixon any hope of offering 1970 budget estimates lower than the $195.3 billion bequeathed to him by Lyndon Johnson.

With the new administration's own preliminary budget review completed, the prospect of really major spending reductions is virtually gone. Indeed, Nixon may find himself fortunate if he is ultimately able to match the Johnson figures.

When budgets are being made up, "first submissions" by the departments and agencies are almost inevitably a good deal higher than the final figures settled upon by the President and the Budget Bureau.

If Nixon had any thought that his "second scrutiny" of the federal establishment, ordered quickly after he assumed office, would produce pared - down estimates, he has abandoned the notion. The preliminary soundings add up to a total higher than Johnson's Budget.

For the next few weeks, therefore, an intensive struggle at the highest administration levels will be required to get the new estimates down and allow the President to go before the country with a workable and politically acceptable budget offering.

It is a safe judgment that the swollen Department of Health, Education and Welfare accounts for part of the problem, with constantly rising welfare and health care costs, and that the Housing and Urban Development Department may also be a troublesome factor.

In the end, however, the Defense Department's prospective outlays for the year starting July 1 may be the most unmanageable item of all.

The President has just announced his intent to seek rises in military pay which would add $1.2 billion to the budget beyond Johnson's calculations in this field. This move is closely connected to his wish to encourage heavier volunteer enlistments as a step away from the draft and toward a volunteer army.

But the big incalculable in Defense is the war in Vietnam. Nixon, upon returning from Europe, told the nation he would have to respond in some way if the enemy's stepped-up offensive in South Vietnam continued unabated.

No hint is yet being given to what form that response would take, nor can there be any way of knowing what effect it would have upon the Paris peace talks and the scale and character of the fighting.

Still it is known that the U. S. military currently is living off its supply inventory — materials already stockpiled in Vietnam, or in the pipeline en route — and cannot do so indefinitely.

Any long continuance of the war, either at present levels or just modestly higher pace, would compel costly replenishing of material stock which could gravely upset budget calculations.

Aside from all the other concerns that the war involves, the economic factor is a potent one. Coupled with the built-in expense escalations in HEW and HUD serious further advances in defense spending could have dangerous impact upon the economy.

We are in the longest boom period in modern U.S. history, eight years and still going. But for the last few years, the gains have been markedly flawed by a steadily more-menacing inflation.

The Nixon budget prospect, rendered inescapably uncertain by the imponderables of war and urban chaos, offers no bright indication that the inflationary spiral can be brought under easy or quick control. Government expenditures in the upcoming fiscal year may, in fact fuel the inflationary fires more than ever.

Altogether, even if Congress steps in and tries to force extra spending cuts upon the White House, the economic outlook is ominous and the chances for a wipe-out or slash in the 10 per cent income tax surcharge increasingly dim.

69 Million Americans Ready to Answer Nixons Call for Volunteer Workers

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J., March 15 — Some 69 million adults stand ready to answer President Nixon's call for volunteer workers to tackle problems besetting local communities across the nation. They typical person would be willing to donate four hours per week of his time to such efforts.

President Nixon in his January 20 Inaugural Address said: "To match the magnitude of our tasks, we need the energies of our people — enlisted not only in grand enterprises, but more importantly in those small, splendid efforts that make headlines in the neighborhood newspaper instead of the national journal."

To discover just how much volunteer manpower is available, the Gallup Poll used its national fact-finding machinery to ask this question in a survey conducted in 300 localities in late January and early February:

Suppose you were asked to serve on a committee which would deal with some local problem, such as housing, recreation, traffic, health and the like —would you accept?

Six persons in every ten (59 per cent), or a projected 69 million, indicate a willingness to go to work to help solve the problems which they regard as most important in their home communities.

Young Eager To Serve

Significantly, interest in serving is greatest among young persons, those in their twenties. People who could probably contribute most — those with a college background — indicate greater degree of willingness to join in an organized attack on local problems than do those with less formal education.

Problems in Enlistment

Readers may argue that if the public is so willing to work, why hasn't there been more evidence of this interest?

Earlier studies have shown that successful efforts to enlist volunteers depend on these three basic factors: (1) the person must have a genuine interest in the project; (2) he must be assured that his efforts will be meaningful and will help bring about change, and (3) his service must be rewarded or recognized in some fashion.

Survey Details

To conduct the survey a representative sample of citizens over the age of 21 were interviewed from coast to coast. These persons were selected to represent an accurate cross-section of the entire adult population. A total of 1486 adults were interviewed in person.

Hours Willing to Donate

All those in the survey who said they would be willing to serve on a committee dealing with a local problem were asked this question:

If you did accept, about how much time could you give each week for work on such a committee?

The median average is four hours. Here is the full breakdown:

How Much Time Per Week?

	Per Cent
One hour	5
Two hours	21
Three hours	13
Four hours	14
Five to Seven	14
Eight to Ten	13
More than Ten	10
Uncertain, DK	10
	100

Many Have Already Served

The fact that many millions of Americans have not donated time to help solve local problems should not obscure the fact that many Americans have already done much valuable work on community projects.

The latest survey shows that 13 per cent of all adults have served on a civic committee dealing with such problems as housing, juvenile deliquency, recreation, health and the like.

The following table shows the percentage of adults willing to serve on committees, nationally and by key groups:

Social Probelms Test Nixon's Ingenuity

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Nixon's administration may turn out to be the most experimental in recent American history since the ground-breaking first years of Franklin D. Roosevelt's regime — though for quite different reasons.

When Roosevelt took office, it was the economic system that was on trial. Unemployment was variously estimated at from 13 to 15 million people, representing from a quarter to a third of the total civilian work force. Much of the nation's physical plant rusted in idleness. In three years 5,000 banks had closed and there were 85,000 business failures. Nine million savings accounts were wiped out as the national income shrank incredibly.

Drastic government action was seen as the answer, and was employed with the frightened acquiescence of nearly the whole nation.

Now, as Richard Nixon faces the realities of the presidency 36 years later, it is government itself that is in crisis. He and his most powerful associates sensed it before they took over. But they have had the lesson driven home to them with staggering force in their short two months in command.

It can be said with authority that they are humble, puzzled, deeply concerned as they confront the challenges of a lingering, festering war; of a country seared and fragmented by racial strife; of rampant crime and nagging poverty; of expenses running almost out of control; of engulfing urban chaos, and of youthful unrest.

This reporter, like others, has heard these men convey their bewilderment as they look at this mountain of difficulty:

"We just don't know what we're going to do about that . . . We don't know right now how to begin, but we've got to make a start somewhere . . . We don't know whether this plan we're talking about will work or not, but we've got to try . . ."

Republicans standing on the outside, chiding Nixon for not "cleaning house" in the State Department, for not swiftly abolishing the antipoverty office, for not magically announcing huge cuts in the federal budget, sound like thin voices in a roaring wind tunnel.

The problems are on the megaton scale. The government is too big to turn around and hard even to move in the smallest ways.

The Nixon men understand full well, nevertheless, that extraordinary new efforts must be made to close the faith-destroying gap between promise and performance by government.

It is in this sense that they, if they have the imagination and the stamina for their task, may prove to be the most experimental agents of the popular will since Roosevelt's New Dealers.

State Democrats Meet on Reform; Approve Most of Sorensen Report

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic State Committee, meeting here Saturday, adopted several of the proposals of a special task force headed by former Presidential aide Theodore Sorensen — but two were surprisingly rejected.

A resolution pledging the committee to direct election of delegates to national nominating conventions—a proposal high on reform Democrats' agenda — was approved almost unanimously, but not until Sorensen resolved a spirited debate on at-large delegates.

The measure as adopted calls on the leadership to seek to amend state law to provide for popular election of all delegates by primaries in congressional districts. An earlier version would have had at-large delegates run as a statewide slate.

Sorensen withdrew that version and substituted the original task force wording—which made no mention of the allotment of at-large delegates.

The direct election resolution also called for every candidate for delegate having the presidential candidate he supports listed on the ballot beside his name — provided the national candidate consents.

Two Surprises

The two surprise rejections of task force proposals were the defeat of a resolution that would have eliminated endorsement of statewide candidates by outgoing committees and of another that would have replaced the present judicial convention method of selecting State Supreme Court nominees with a direct primary.

A resolution unpopular to many of the Democratic young people — confining activity by the Young Democrats organization to college campuses and persons below voting age — was approved.

"All others should be brought into the broad spectrum of the party," the committee said.

The task force—established to improve the Democrats' image in New York State — also had recommended that the separate women's division of the committee be disbanded.

An amended version of the resolution — urging all party leaders to integrate women voters into "the full spectrum of party acitivity" until the separate division becomes unnecessary — won swift approval.

Among the other sections of the report that were approved were the proposals for lowering the voting age to 18, for leaving on the rolls for four years instead of two the voters who miss an election and for eliminating all literacy tests as a requirement for voting.

Revise Tax Laws

Earlier Saturday, the committee's newly formed Committee on Legislation gave unanimous approval to proposals urging revision of the tax laws and the restoration of $160 million in state aid, as recommended by Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

The proposals, part of a package announced Thursday by Senate Minority Leader Joseph Zaretzki and Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut, were termed a "responsible program" by State Chairman John J. Burns.

The legislation committee also voiced its unanimous opposition to an increase in the sales tax under the new budget. The group sent to the full state committee recommendations calling for the bringing to the legislative floors of abortion and gun-control bills but took no position on either issue.

Legion Post Meets March 25

KINGSTON

The regular meeting of Kingston Post 150 American Legion and Auxiliary has been rescheduled to Tuesday, March 25.

The meeting was originally scheduled for this Tuesday. Commander Everett Emmick said the reason for the later date is to insure the complete repair of the post home which was damaged heavily in a fire Nov. 2, 1968. It is expected the building will be open to members by March 24.

Plans are underway for a gala grand opening March 29. Arrangements are under the direction of Past Commander James Costello and Patricia Heppner, auxiliary president. The event will be open to all Legionnaires and members of the auxiliary.

The annual spring dance, co-chaired by Charles M. King and Robert Ackert and the Americanism program under the direction of Robert Post will be discussed at the March meeting.

Sirhan Mental Tests Another Three Weeks

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Defense attorneys for Sirhan B. Sirhan intend to spend at least three more weeks questioning psychiatric experts about the mental makeup of the man on trial for the murder of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Dr. Martin M. Schorr, a clinical psychologist, led off the parade of defense witnesses who probed the personality of the 24-year-old Arab immigrant.

Schorr, who resumes testifying under cross examination today, says Sirhan is a psychotic paranoid with schizophrenic tendencies—in layman's terms, a "Jekyll and Hyde personality."

Schorr said that on the night of June 5, 1968, when Kennedy was shot to death at the Ambassador Hotel, Sirhan was incapable of rationally plotting the slaying. Sirhan has testified he was unable to remember the actual assassination.

Schorr said that in Sirhan's eyes, Kennedy became his despised father and when he pulled the trigger only inches from the Senator's head, he was killing Bishara Sirhan.

The defense contends Sirhan did not intend to kill Kennedy when he went to the Ambassador that night and should not be convicted of first degree murder which carries the possibility of death in the gas chamber.

The prosecution, in an attempt to shake the "diminished capacity" defense, bore down on Schorr last week during cross examination. Tapes of Sirhan's conversations with police interrogators were played in court, and Schorr was asked to comment on them.

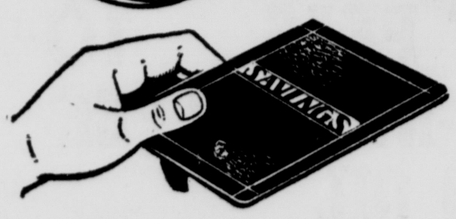

Through Sirhan's deft parrying of the detectives' questions, the prosecution attempted to show that he was in full possession of his faculties at the time of the shooting. The defense contends he was mentally ill, and drunk besides.

In a sidelight to the trial during the weekend, New York publisher Bernard Geis claimed part of Schorr's testimony last week duplicated almost word for word the language in "Casebook of a Crime Psychiatist."

Schor said he had read the book and might have subconsciously adopted its language.

The 11th week of the trial began today and it seemed certain to continue for another month. Sirhan turns 25 Wednesday.

Kentucky Store Prospers, Owner Praises Medicaid

NEON, Ky. (AP) — The sign on a narrow storefront in this mountain town of 750 says "Clarke's Pharmacy." A curious visitor might wonder how co-owner William S. Clarke Jr. scratches out a living.

But Clarke needs no condolences. That tiny store in the farthest reaches of poverty-saturated Appalachia received $328,000 from the state last year in Medicaid payments, the largest amount dispensed to any medical vendor in the state.

Without Medicaid, Clarke says, the pharmacy might do a total of $10,000 in business annually.

The report on the big Medicaid payments raised eyebrows around the state, but did not perturb Clarke, 44, a soft-spoken, bespectacled businessman who came to Kentucky from his native South Carolina a decade ago "to enjoy the clean mountain air."

But reports of large payments —to doctors and dentists, too— have prompted the state Economic Security Department to ask for a thorough federal review of the entire Medicaid program.

The state paid $10 million last year for medicine and druggists' fees.

Clarke was happy to explain how a seemingly small operation in the hinterlands of eastern Kentucky could become so profitable—although hastily adding that it's not all profit.

"It so happens that I am sitting in a nest of welfare recipients," he said.

Clarke estimated that within a five-mile radius of Neon live perhaps 15,000 people and that possibly 80 per cent are on some form of state relief, which generally entitles them to a card giving free prescriptions.

He also owns pharmacies at Jenkins, a larger town five miles from here, and in Letcher County near the Virginia line.

The Jenkins pharmacy received $125,950 last year, third highest payment to a medical vendor.

"I think Medicaid has been good to me and I think I've been good to it," Clarke said.

"I feel I've helped people, and not only in filling prescriptions. I've treated them with kindness and compassion. I've talked to them about anything they want to talk about—and these people need to talk to someone."

The welfare clients entering the small store are mostly old, often handicapped and generally talkative about seasonal matters—the snow, planting crops and the like.

Clarke said that even if he were unprincipled, the Medicaid operation makes it impossible for him to "take" the state for one extra cent.

The forms are all neatly stacked in a room behind the front store portion: eye-tiring lists of the patient's medical assistance number plus numbers of the prescription and drug, date and quantity dispensed, the physician's license number, the cost of the drug and finally the professional fee.

Each prescription fee averages about $3 and thus the Neon pharmacy must fill some 200 prescriptions every day.

Red Cross Sets Water Safety Camp Courses

KINGSTON

J. Brian Steeves, Water Safety and Small Crafts Chairman of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, has announced that 24 American Red Cross Aquatic and Small Craft Schools have been scheduled across the country this spring and summer to meet the growing need for certified swimming, lifesaving, and boating instructors.

The 10-day courses offered at the schools will give qualified candidates intensive first aid, small craft, and water safety training. Some of the aquatic schools will offer special instruction in swimming for the handicapped and competitive and synchronized swimming, while other schools will have elective courses for boating, canoeing, and sailing instructors.

Schools scheduled for the northeastern section of the United States include the following: Camp Hanover, Richmond, Va., June 11-21; Camp Kiwanee, Hanson, Mass., June 8-18; St. Thomas More School, Colchester, Conn., June 11-21; Camp Indian Trails, Milford, Pa., June 16-26; Camp Muskingum, Carrollton, Ohio, June 13-23; Camp Tevya, Brookline, N. H., June 14-24; and The Elms Camp, Hammondsport, August 17-27.

Steeves pointed out that all Aquatic Schools offer training leading to and including First Aid Instructor. No swimming activity is required for this course.

For further information or applications for Aquatic Schools, the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross, 308 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, should be contacted.

City Firemen Quell Blaze at Tompkins Site

KINGSTON

City firemen were dispatched to 56 Tompkins Street at 10:22 a.m. Sunday after a resident there reported electric wiring burning on the second floor and considerable smoke in the house.

Firemen from Engine 1 and Truck 1, Central Station, and Engine 3 from Cornell firehouse, with volunteer units from Union Hose, Cordts and Wicks Salvage responded to the alarm. On arrival firemen found the fire originated in an electric switch in the second floor hall and extended to a door, partition studs and into the attic where dry wall construction burned.

Pressurized water from tanks was used to quell the blaze, which fire officials said was due to defective wiring. The house is owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. George Hutter.

Before firemen arrived with apparatus, Robert Winchell, a neighbor and member of Union Hose Fire Company volunteers, went to the Hutter residence and cut off the electricity.

Deputy Chief Glyn Southard was in charge of firefighters at the scene.

Police Hold 3 For Theft at School Center

KINGSTON

Detectives arrested two youths and took in custody a 14-year-old boy on Saturday, in connection with a burglary at the Multi-media Center in School 4 at Lindsley and Delaware Avenues during which three tape recorders were stolen on Feb. 6.

Randolph Morgan, 16, of 10 Meadow Street, was charged with two counts of burglary third degree. Detective Lt. Lemuel F. Howard said the youth allegedly entered the building on two occasions on that date.

Stephen Riddick, 17, of 27 Spring Street, was booked for burglary in the third degree and grand larceny, third degree. Howard said the juvenile will be petitioned into Family Court by the Juvenile Aid Bureau officers.

The boy faces charges of burglary third and grand larceny. The cases of the two older boys are pending in City Court. Police said the tape recorders were recovered by detectives. Morgan was originally cited for possession of stolen property, but subsequent investigation led to the other charges, police noted.

Two Arrested In Separate Drugs Cases

KINGSTON

A 17-year-old Pennsylvania) youth was arrested Saturday on the State Thruway by State Police, and an 18-year-old Kingston girl, was booked by city detectives on charges involving narcotics over the weekend. The cases were unrelated, authorities noted.

Arraigned before Woodstock Town Justice Rudolf Baumgarten, Musselman entered a plea of guilty to illegal possesion of a dangerous drug. He pleaded guilty and was released from custody after paying a $15 fine.

Kingston detectives on Saturday arrested Debra Scholar, of 42 Johnson Avenue, and charged he with criminal possession of a dangerous drug-marijuana—fourth degree. Her case was referred to city court for disposition. Det. Lieut. Lemuel Howard noted the arrest of the girl resulted from an investigation.

2 Injured, 2 Cited In Weekend Mishaps

KINGSTON — Two persons were injured and two motorists were cited for driving motor vehicles while intoxicated, as the result of weekend traffic mishaps investigated by city police.

John R. Terpening, 18, of 119 Newkirk Avenue, was charged with drunken driving, failure to keep to the right, driving with unsafe tires, failure to produce a registraation, driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent and unlicensed operation.

Police reports noted the Terpening vehicle was in collision with a car operated by Raymond H. Coles, 68, of RD 5, Box 19, Kingston, on Abeel Street early Sunday night.

Frank M. Murphy, 66, of 86 Foxhall Avenue, as charged with driving while intoxicated, following a mishap at Foxhall Avenue and Stephan Street at 8:30 Sunday. Murphy was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for two broken ribs. Police said Murphy was traveling on Foxhall avenue when his car was in collision with the rear of another vehicle driven by Anthony T. Amato, 50, of Box 223, Glasco.

Murphy's car continued on, made a 360-degree turn and slammed into a building occupied by Cassidy and Sons. The structure is owned by Swart & Company of Kingston.

Lillian Perry, 62, of 39 Josephine Avenue, was taken to Benedictine Hospital Sunday, after she was hit by a driverless car at Washington Avenue and Marius Street, according to police, who noted the woman got out of a car owned by Michael J. Eigo of 143 Washington Avenue, and the vehicle rolled back and collided with a car operated by Shirley Sickler of Ulster Park, and then hit the Kingston woman. She complained of injuries of the right side, police said.

Police Probe 4 Burglaries In Kingston

KINGSTON — Investigation of four burglaries and an attempted burglary was conducted today by detectives under the direction of Lt. Lemuel Howard, who said one establishment was entered twice.

Police were notified at 10 a.m. Sunday that Canfield's Machine and Tool shop at 17 Dedrick Street, had been entered by smashing glass in a front door. An inventory was taken today to determine how many, if any, television sets and tape recorders had been taken.

At 6:30 a. m. today, authorities received a complaint that Canfield's had been entered again by prying a lock on the front door. Lt. Howard said a cash box containing less than $50 was missing.

Perry's Service Station at 316 Broadway was entered sometime between 8:30 p. m. Saturday and Sunday morning. Entry was gained through a side door. A candy and cigarette machine were rifled and the cash contents taken.

The press box at Dietz Stadium was burglarized sometime Saturday. Police were notified at 12:45 p. m. that a door on the left side of the structure had been forced. Taken from the building were parts of the amplifier equipment.

Lt. Howard also noted that someone forced open a unit back of the main altar at St. Mary's Rectory, but apparently nothing of value was taken. An attempt was made to force open another unit, police said.

Who Murdered Gallo? Case Baffles Police

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON

Who murdered Robert Daniel Gallo?

Who shot him under the right arm pit, then pummeled him with a gun butt or some other blunt instrument, and then stood over his prostrate body and at close range fired two .22 caliber bullets into his head—a half inch apart?

Those questions remain unanswered after almost five months of intensive probing by expert State Police Bureau of Investigation officers.

As yet no motive for the gruesome slaying has been uncovered. The crime still baffles authorities. The shock of the tragedy still lingers throughout this area.

Gallo was the victim of homicide on Sunday, Oct. 20, 1968. He was happy when he left the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Gallo in East Kingston, on that afternoon to go hunting in nearby fields. Later that day he had a date with his fiance, Marie Pulverenti a beauty salon operator, to whom he was engaged.

Gallo's body was found the next day by a search party in a field not far from his home by members of a search party, which ironically included the victim's cousin, Chris Gallo. Others who made the discovery were also East Kingston volunteer firemen, Patrick Clausi and James Costello.

The 23-year-old murder victim's shotgun, his cartridge belt and his wallet never were found despite untiring search by state police of Troop F.

A BLOOD SOAKED HUNTING CAP WAS MUTE EVIDENCE FOUND AT MURDER SCENE.

Hundreds Questioned

Hundreds of persons, friends, neighbors and others have been interviewed in the course of the investigation. Some of them underwent polygraph (lie-detector) tests. Mine detectors have been used in search for the spent casings of the two bullets that killed the Port Ewen barber. This evidence is still missing.

Scuba divers from the State Police probed the bottom of the Hudson River off the west shore in the vicinity of the fields where Gallo was slain. A countless number of .22 caliber guns, the type authorities say was used to take the life of Gallo, were confiscated from area residents and others during the investigation. Each was sent to the State Police laboratory for processing. The result in each case was negative.

Search continues for the death weapon.

Motives Ruled Out

Senior BCI Investigators Edward Shannon and Charles Teelon of the Kingston Zone Headquarters said that the possibility of Gallo's implication in incidents involving narcotics or gambling had been definitely ruled out. Also ruled out as a motive was a possibility or revenge, or trouble that may have erupted in the competitive barber business.

A possibility that Gallo on his hunting trip on that fateful Sunday may have come upon an illicit romantic act, and was assaulted and subsequently killed, was ruled out, authorities said. The fact that $64 had been recovered from the left front pocket of the victim's trousers after his body was found, eliminated ,temporarily at least, a possible motive of robbery.

Shannon and Teelon theorized that Gallo was laying on the ground, face down when he was shot twice in the back of the head, possibly after being slugged unconscious by the slayer—or slayers. The investigators noted that the bullet holes in the victim's head were a half inch apart. The absence of powder burns was evidence that the lethal weapon was held a few feet above Gallo when the shots were fired.

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser ruled after an autopsy that Gallo's death was due to lacerations of the brain caused by gunshot and a fractured skull. The finding of the coroner was homicide.

At the outset of the investigation of the crime that baffles authorities, BCI officers interviewed hundreds of friends of the victim and residents of the area seeking any bit of evidence that might aid in establishing a motive and the apprehension of the person—or persons responsible for the murder.

BCI officers spent several days in Brooklyn, Long Island, the Bronx and Long Island communities, checking on hunters who were known to have been in this area about the time of the murder. Guns of .22 caliber owned by those men, were confiscated until they were eliminated from the case following examination at the upstate laboratory.

No Suspects

During the mourning period prior to Gallo's burial, and at the funeral services, state police plainclothesmen maintained a close surveilance of those persons in attendance. But no suspects were found.

A polygraph, a device using instrument to register changes in blood pressure, strength of pulse beat or respiratory movements, or increased emotional excitement assumed to accompany lying under questioning, was used in checking several individuals, who were eventually eliminated from the case.

A mine detector which was used to sweep the entire area in the vicinity of the slaying, led investigators to a number of bullet casing, but the two spent casing of the death bullets never were found.

A batch of photographs taken on the ground and from aircraft showing the terrain in the murder area, were closely scrutinized but nothing of value was noted in any of them.

An official admitted that there is a remote possibility that whoever fired the shot that hit Gallo under the right arm pit, may have realized the seriousness of the situation, and panicked before slugging the young man on the head and then firing the two lethal shots into his skull.

Investigation showed that Gallo's reputation was unblemished. Troopers said he had no known enemies, "and he never looked for trouble."

Whoever killed Gallo, must live with it forever," an official commented.

College Plans Early Admission For Outstanding Area Scholars

STONE RIDGE

Ulster County Community College will begin an Early Admission Program for local high school students this summer, Dean of Faculty Robert J. Markes announced today.

Under this program, high school students who have demonstrated outstanding academic ability will be permitted to begin college-level work before they graduate from high school.

"We plan to try this out on a two-year experimental basis," said Dean Markes. "If it works out satisfactorily, then we'll make it a permanent feature at the college."

Dean Markes said officials at high schools throughout the county have expressed interest in this program because it will permit their more able student to expand their educational horizons by beginning college-level work earlier than they normally would.

"We are very excited about this program because it will permit us to establish closer relationships with the secondary schools throughout the county," Dean Markes said, "and because it will be a further way for our community college to live up to its name."

Under the Early Admission plan, high school students participating will be non-matriculated for the college courses in which they enroll and will still retain their high school status.

Any college credits these students earn will be held in abeyance until they obtain a high school diploma. Then the credits will count toward a college degree.

Through the Early Admission Program, high school students will be able to enroll in summer session courses between their junior and senior years, or will be able to take these courses during their senior year.

'Dean of Composers' Is Guest Conductor For HVP in Kingston

The man who has been called "the dean of American composers," Aaron Copland, will be guest conductor of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in a Subscription Series Concert, tonight at the Community Theater here in Kingston at 8:30 p. m.

The program for the evening will include Symphony No. 5 in B Flat Major, D 485 by Schubert, Tchaikovsky's Overture-Fantasy, Romeo and Juliet, and two of Copland's own compositions: The Appalachian Spring suite, arranged by Copland from the music he had written for a ballet first performed in 1944, and El Salon Mexico, a rhythmic orchestral piece.

Aaron Copland's compositions were first heard in the United States at a League of Composers concert in November, 1924, in New York City. His Third Symphony won the New York Music Critics Circle Award in 1946 and has been given world-wide performance since its Boston Symphony premiere.

The composer was born in Brooklyn in 1900; first studied piano with his sister, and continued his studies with Leopold Wolfson, Victor Wittgenstein and Clarance Adler. Later, he studied theory with Rubin Goldmark for four years at the newly established Fountainbleau School of Music in France, and with Nadia Boulanger in Paris for the next three years, returning to the U.S. in 1924. The following year he was the first composer to win a Guggenheim Fellowship which was renewed in 1926.

The versatile Copland has taught composition at Harvard University and Berkshire Music Center, where he was Chairman of the faculty and head of the composition department. He is the author of four books, "What to Listen for in Music," "Our New Music," "Music and Imagination" and "Copland on Music." In September, 1964 he received the Presidential Medal of Freedom, "the highest civil honor conferred by the President of the United States for services in peacetime."

In recent years, the composer has been increasingly active as conductor. He has led more than 30 major symphonic organizations in England, France, Germany, Japan, Italy, Yugoslavia, Portugal, the Soviet Union and the Scandinavian countries. As guest conductor of the Boston Symphony, he accompanied Charles Munch and the orchestra on its Far Eastern tour in 1960. In November of that year he led the New York Philharmonic in concert celebrating his 60th birthday.

In addition to his appearance for the subscription series concert in Kingston, Copland conducted the Hudson Valley Philharmonic in special performances Saturday at Rockland Community College, sponsored by the college, and at Poughkeepsie High School Sunday night, and will conduct two concerts March 22 at the Ichabod Crane School in Valatie, sponsored by the Columbia Council on the Arts.

Vols Meet Tuesday

The regular meeting of Ulster County Volunteer Firemens Association will be held Tuesday 8 p. m. at the Highland Hose Company rooms.

Starting Young

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Police said a 7-year-old boy burglarized a service station of 50 pennies Sunday after pushing through a loose door panel to gain entry.

The youngster, who later was turned over to juvenile authorities, had taken the money from the station's cash register, they said. He was found by an attendant who arrived to open for business.

DINAH'S GIRL WEDS — Melissa Ann Montgomery was married to David Lee Burk at the home of the bride's mother, singer Dinah Shore Montgomery, Sunday. Melissa is a student at Vanderbilt University and her husband, David, is an actor-producer. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Sierra Club's Latest Fight: Own Organization Control

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Sierra Club is embroiled in an internal power struggle that could affect the future of America's conservation movement.

Strong-willed individualists, many of them veteran mountaineers and backpackers, are battling for control of the 72,000-member organization.

The center of conflict is David Brower, 56, the executive director of the club, founded in 1892 by naturalist John Muir.

Brower's critics accuse him of arrogance and a driving thirst for personal control of the club, considered by many as the nation's most militant and potent force fighting for preservation of wilderness and scenic wonders.

The club, which has long fought to set up more national parks, was the driving force behind establishment this past year of Redwoods National Park in California and Cascades National Park in Washington.

The club won a battle to prevent damming of the Colorado River that would have flooded portions of the Grand Canyon.

Those who want to oust Brower after 17 years as the club's executive officer say he has overstepped his authority in expanding the club to national and international scope, partly through an ambitious book publication program.

Brower says the issue is whether the club reverts "to its days as a society of companions on the trail" or moves ahead as an eloquent, successful voice for the cause of worldwide conservation.

The issue will be decided in April when club members vote by mail for five directors. Pro-Brower and anti-Brower slates are bitterly attacking each other in broadsides reminiscent of a full-fledged political campaign.

Pa. Man Held On Arms Charge

CATSKILL

A 30-year-old Pennsylvania man was arrested at 7 p. m. Saturday by Leeds State Police on a charge of illegal possession of a firearm, after he was stopped on Route 9W in this township for a routine traffic check.

Trooper N. J. Pazin lodged the charge against Jack M. Seebode, of 2142 North Randolph Street, Philadelphia. He accused the motorist of having a 6.35 German hand gun in his car. The gun was loaded.

Investigation was continued by Senior BCI Investigator Michael Mattera, who arraigned Seebode before Town Justice George Carl. The defendant waived preliminary hearing and was committed to the Green County jail pending grand jury action.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

TODAY IS ST. PATRICK'S DAY!—It's that social season of the Leprechaun again and lively parties will be sparking tonight's celebrations to make this a "great day for the Irish." To properly complete decorative effects, hostesses should not forget to invite a Leprechan or two. For example, your local florist can provide the tiny guests of honor along with specially designed floral arrangements such as the one above featuring green tinted carnations, snapdragons and fern topp-off with Leprechauns perched on driftwood branches.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

Last night I reread George Orwell's Animal Farm. This, as you remember, is the story of how the animals took a farm away from the bad human owner and planned to operate it themselves for the benefit of all. It worked, for a while. The hens kept their eggs and hatched them; the horses plowed and harrowed with all their hearts and strength because they were making their own harvest. The pigs seemed to be the cleverest of the animals so they were the ones who organized things.

Organization, of course, was what ruined the project, for organization means power and pigs were not able to resist power any more than human beings can. In the end the pigs had joined up with the humans, the farm was being run for profit, and the animals were back on the old treadmill, overworked, underfed, and no longer free.

I found Animal Farm very sad. It was written 20 years ago as a powerful criticism of the Soviet Government in which people only think they are free, but I found it all too pertinent to aspects of our times.

In our times power is money. Money is our god and if you can't make it you aren't a patriotic, right-thinking American. Resistance to this idea, I think is what is animating so many of our young folks. They talk big about taking over our world, and so on. They won't do it but that doesn't mean the world couldn't stand improvement. Students here and there are violently in opposition to their colleges. But for every one who throws rocks at the windows of the administration building there are many thousands who go to classes, take examinations, and receive their degrees just as they always have. This does not mean they accept their world. They are as disturbed as the violent ones but less noisy about it.

We drill oil in the Pacific and destroy the beaches not only for Californians but for the wild creatures of the sea; we plan to build, God forbid, a Disneyland Alpine village to decorate the incomparable beauties of the Sierra National Park; some of us have to fight every inch of the way for another strip of national seashore or national forest. Why? Because oil drilling and Alpine villages and seashore in the right hands mean money and money is the most important thing there is.

The idiocy of out TV commercials is too well known to mention as is the fact that our breakfast food comes in 50 different-sized packages with different pictures on them although it is the same old sugared corn. Our refrigerators and stoves and automobiles are built not to last. We can make light bulbs and nylon stockings to wear until the last violent student is a grandfather but we don't do it. It wouldn't be profitable.

St. Patrick's Day Carnation Sale Today at Benedictine

At the regular meeting of the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary, held on Wednesday, Mar. 5, Terry Thomas, chairman, reported the final plans for the annual St. Patrick's Day carnation sale. All proceeds for the carnations, which are on sale at the hospital today, will be applied to benefit hospital activities.

During the meeting a note was read from past-president Mrs. Henry Eichelmann, thanking the members for the gift presented her at the last meeting, and especially for their "cooperation on so many projects" during her term of office.

It was reported by Mrs. Edward Coppo that 21 new junior volunteers had attended orientation classes and are presently performing various services at the hospital.

Announcement was made of the forthcoming Mid-Atlantic Hospital Association Convention to be held in Atlantic City, N. J., on May 20, 21, and 22. It was decided that the president, Mrs. Edward Coppo, along with a member delegate to be chosen in the near future, would attend this informative event.

The annual spring dance and buffet will be held this year on May 3 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Mrs. Henry Eichelmann, chairman, announced it would be called the "Astro Ball and Satellite Buffet," the cost of which will be $15 per couple. Tickets for this fund raising event are being mailed to members.

Mrs. John McCardle announced the by-laws were being revised by her committee and would be presented for a vote by the members at the June meeting.

New members were presented by Mrs. Richard Larson, membership chairman. They are as follows: Mrs. Francis Delany, Mrs. W. C. Gelsleichter, Mrs. Fred Eisert, Mrs. Louis Fisher and Mrs. Anthony Vicevich.

After the business meeting, Mrs. James Sweeney, program chairman, introduced Miss Jeanne Fox and her seeing eye dog "Happy" to the audience. Jeanne, a versatile and courageous young lady, delighted the group during a question and answer period after the showing of the film "Happy Forward in which she and her dog starred. A lesson in daily courage and strength was offered by her example.

Sister Mary Charles spoke enthusiastically about the new intensive care unit in operation at the hospital and stated that monitors were being installed for cardiac use by two patients. She thanked the Auxiliary for its generosity and decision to donate $100 to Sister Callista for the Sister M. Aloysius Scholarship Fund which is applied to the training of a student in the Benedictine School of Nursing and for their continued help in so many areas aiding the hospital to meet certain demands and operate more efficiently.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. William Cranston and Mrs. Laura Buono.

Speaker Named for Breakfast

Rt. Rev. Msgr. T. R. Mullins

Past Grand Knight Joseph F. Soccoman has announced that the annual corporate Communion and breakfast of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will be held on Passion Sunday, Mar. 23.

This traditional communion date was selected by the committee, and marks the 45th annual corporate Communion of the local Council. Communion will be received during the eight o'clock Mass in St. Colman's Church in East Kingston. The Mass will be offered by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas R. Mullins, pastor. Breakfast will be served immediately after the conclusion of the Mass in the K of C home, under the direction of John Rice, and his committee. It will be served by members of Kingston Columbiettes.

The guest speaker at the breakfast will be Monsignor Mullins, who has been a member of Kingston Council for the past 30 years. Formerly an assistant priest at St. Mary's Church, Ellenville, he enlisted in the U. S. Navy Chaplain's Corps on November 13, 1942 and for the next 23 years served on many U. S. Naval vessels, as well as several years of shore duty. Monsignor Mullins received an honorable discharge from the service on July 1, 1965. He became pastor of St. Colman's in 1968.

In keeping with the K of C tradition of family participation in all Council events, wives and children of the members will also attend both functions on Passion Sunday.

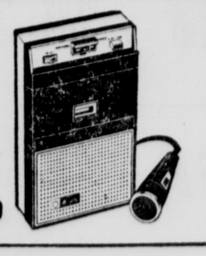

Attorney William A. Kelly of this city, a past grand knight of Kingston Council, will act as toastmaster. Grand Knight Charles A. Ryan anticipates a large attendance.

LOOK SMART, NOT CUTE

The key to being stylish is looking "smart" never "cute." If you're still hanging on to that adorable animal pin your cheerleading charm bracelet, keep them for sentimental value if you have to, but don't, repeat, don't, wear them. They may create an unforgettable impression, but it's for sure you'll never be labeled chic wearing them.

Intimate apparel is an integral part of the total wardrobe this season, especially with the current look with cutouts, low plunge necklines—back and front, bared midriffs and sheer fabrics. Choose your underpinnings to have the supple look to coordinate with the cut of the clothes.

DOROTHY A. NAREL, center, woman's page editor of The Freeman, explains the mechanics of putting together the daily woman's section of the newspaper. Mrs. Narel was guest speaker at a meeting of the Women's Club of the YWCA on Thursday, March 13. With her (l-r) are Mrs. Clifford DuMond, club president; and Mrs. Walter Danford, program chairman. In her topic, "Pen and Pencil," Mrs. Narel spoke in general about women, their contributions in the past and their present day efforts in the economic growth of New York State. She also covered the activities of her department, the responsibilities of news reporting, layouts and public services extended to a community by a newspaper. Mrs. Gladys Millonig, publicity chairman for the club, told The Freeman that "the members and guests of the club were informed, enlightened and entertained." Hostesses at a St. Patrick's tea table afterwards were the Mmes. George Simpkins, Samuel Peyer, John Pope, John Cuff and Blanche Fitzgerald. (Freeman photo by Haines)

YWCA Camp Quannacut Offers Unique Summer Experience

The YWCA's Camp Quannacut, which opens for the 1969 season on July 1, offers a unique experience in camping for girls eight through 15 years of age.

Exciting adventure in the outdoors is combined with opportunities for each girl to develop new appreciation of herself and others. Girls live together in small groups and plan their own programs from a full range of camp activities which includes sports, horseback riding, crafts, arts drama, dance and music. And girls have the opportunity to create their own projects, in campcraft, conservation or the arts, allowing them to use their talents and develop new interests.

Located in the foothills of the Shawangunk Mountains 90 miles northwest of New York City, Quannacut covers 70 wooded acres, has a private lake for swimming, boating and canoeing, tennis courts, archery ranges and large, modern dining and recreational halls. There are many well-marked trails for cookouts, hikes and overnights to such inviting sites as Second Brook, "Echo Hill," Sam's Point and Lake Awosting.

Owned and operated by the YWCA of the City of New York since 1922, Quannacut provides constructive direction for summer energies in a secure, relaxed atmosphere. Girls live with others from differing backgrounds and cultures, learn to recognize and respect differences.

Quannacut is operated on a non-profit basis designed to offer girls the best in camping at the lowest possible cost. Counselors are college students or graduates, and the ratio of staff to campers is one to six. Sixteen and 17-year olds may enroll in a counselor-in-training program.

Girls may register for periods ranging from two weeks to a full summer. Additional information and application forms can be obtained from: Camp Department, YWCA of the City of New York, 610 Lexington Avenue, New York, N. Y. 10022.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute

IMITATION IS A SINCERE FORM OF FLATTERY

Dear Mrs. Post: Would you suggest a tactful way in which to discourage "copying"? My husband and I spend a great deal of time and effort to make our home original and I resent these same ideas copied by my in-laws. My mother-in-law does not complement us on anything and yet, when we visit her, I see myself coming and going — in her home as well as her daughter's. An exact duplicate of a flower arrangement I made was on her table as a centerpiece and no mention was made of mine. I could go on and on. My husband says to forget it as it is a compliment.—Mrs. X.

Dear Mrs. "X": Your husband is right. To be imitated is a true compliment and you should be flattered that your mother-in-law finds your decorations or furnishings so attractive the she wishes to surround herself with the same things. She would be more tactful to ask your permission before copying you, but don't be resentful—accept her compliment for what it is worth. There is a saying that "Imitation of another is limitation of oneself," and those who can only imitate rather than invent are to be pitied rather than resented.

NFA Pressed to Beat Rondout, 49-44

A GIANT LEAP — Pierre Russell (44) of Kansas takes a giant leap as he tries to block Vin Costello (with ball) of Boston College during their game in the NIT Sunday at Madison Square Garden in New York. BC toppled Kansas 78-62 to advance to quarter finals. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By MORT LAFFIN

NEW PALTZ

Newburgh High School's basketball team, winners of the DUSO League and the Class A title of the Section Nine Tournament, found the going almost too tough as they eked out a 49-44 victory over a tough Rondout Valley quintet Saturday night at the New Paltz College gym. The victory gave the Goldbacks the Class A-B title.

The Ganders had defeated Nanuet on Thursday to win the Class B championship rather handily as Newburgh had to struggle to get by Middletown in the A finals. However, most fans never figured the game between the two champs to be that close. It was generally accepted in most quarters, that Newburgh would blow the losers out of the gym.

It was not the case as the Rondout team appeared to be sky-high for the confrontation with the favorites. Gander coach John "Chick" Meehan had some very note-worthy statements after the game. Meehan said, "I have felt, all year long, that our boys have the potential to beat anybody, once they put it all together. We have been hot and cold all year long and even in this game, we weren't at our best."

Made Adjustments

Meehan continued, "It was a hard-fought game by both sides. Newburgh eventually over-powered us. We went into the game with our usual game plan, made the adjustments along the way and tried to give a good account of ourselves. It was a fine team effort in this game and also throughout the season."

Coach Meehan was also quick to point out that he thought the spirit and sportsmanship of the Rondout rooters was a big factor in this game as well as all the other tilts.

"Our fans go to the games to cheer, not boo", the mentor said. "We try not to let them down. Our fans gave us a standing ovation at the end of the ball game and I want to go on record as saying that we have appreciated their loyal support all season."

Newburgh was led to victory by Larry Frazire, who fired in 17 points, Ralpph Petrillo added 13. Pete Koola, high scoring center for the Ganders dropped in 19 points in the losing effort.

The game was very tight right from the beginning, as the defense of both clubs, plus the pressure of the contest held the scoring down. Newburgh led 12-11 at the end of the first quarter and 25-23 at the half.

The Tide Changes

In the third quarter, however, things turned around. Rondout took advantage of numerous mistakes by Newburgh and finally grabbed the lead 33-32. A mighty roar went up from the crowd as it appeared that Meehan's Maurauders were going to pull the upset of the year.

The Goldbacks bounced right back as Frazier and Petrillo started to score. In the fourth quarter, the winners came alive and ran out to 40-33 lead with 5:40 left. They then had a 10 point lead with 3 minutes left. Rondout tried to close the gap and almost did it. But the winners hung tenaciously to their small margin for victory.

Newburgh Coach Mickey Burkoskie also had some comments for the press after the game. Burkoski explained that most people figured his club to blow the losers right off the floor and that his boys believed it themselves.

"They (Newburgh) were unemotional about the contest and acted as if they couldn't be bothered with worrying about it, he said. The Newburgh mentor, though upset over the closeness of the final score admitted he was proud of his boys, after he calmed down.

Highland Falls routed Chester, 72-46, to win the Class C-D championship in the Section Nine Tourney at New Paltz College Saturday night. The winners combined a tough 1-3-1 defense with a fast break offense from the beginning and Chester was never in the game.

John French and Derek Hunter supplied most of the firepower with 24 and 21 points respectively. Dick Bell had 20 for the losers.

Staub and Clendenon Are Sick of It All

By United Press International

The international baseball tug of war between Houston and Montreal today found two of the interested parties—Rusty Staub and Donn Clendenon—sick and tired of the whole thing.

Staub, traded by the Houston Astros to the Montreal Expos for Clendenon and Jesus Alou, declared at St. Petersburg Fla., that if he is "not in a Montreal uniform when all this is finally settled, the chances of my continuing in baseball are slim."

Clendenon once again insisted he has retired unequivocally, as he explained in a letter to Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, and that he "came into baseball gracefully and would like to go out gracefully." The storm of publicity, Clendenon added, has grieved him.

Kuhn, clinging to his interpretation of the rule book, has declared the trade a valid one, despite Clendenon's announced retirement. The commissioner, on a technicality, says that Donn does not become a "bona fide" retired player until 30 days after the season starts.

Kuhn's ruling did not sit well with the Astros, and they are pressing Kuhn to reverse himself, declare the trade off, and return Staub to them.

Montreal, on the other hand, based a major part of their preseason promotion and planning on Staub, one of the National League's leading hitters a year ago and twice an All Star. The Expos insist they want and need Staub.

While the muddled Houston-Montreal debate went on, the New York Mets were huddling with Atlanta on a possible swap that would bring Joe Torre to New York. Met general manager Johnny Murphy flew from St. Petersburg to West Palm Beach at the request of Atlanta GM Paul Richards.

Torre also could become involved in the Staub-Clendenon affair. There are reports that if Houston gets Staub back, they will immediately attempt to ship him along to Atlanta for Torre.

There was some action on the ball fields Sunday, too, although Florida rains disrupted the exhibition schedule.

The Baltimore Orioles won their sixth straight, downing the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2. The Reds' tallies were the first allowed by Baltimore lefthander Mike Cuellar in 16 innings....The Detroit Tigers lost to the New York Yankees, 5-3, all of New York's runs coming in the fifth inning off John Hiller....The Dodgers won 3-1 over the Chicago White Sox in Nassau, Bahamas, and used a native Bahaman, Henry Williams, to pitch the ninth . . . Ted Williams' Washington Senators slipped back to the losing side, bowing 4-3 to Atlanta...Ed Kirkpatrick's two run triple in the eighth gave the Kansas City Royals a 2-1 edge over the Pittsburgh Pirates....Juan Marichal, who signed for $115,000 Saturday, began working for it by hurling four perfect innings as the San Francisco Giants drubbed the Chicago Cubs, 9-2...There were two "football" scores too...The Oakland Athletics whipped the Seattle Pilots 13-6 and the Cleveland Indians outlasted the California Angels 14-10.

It's Showdown Week In NCAA and NIT

(By Associated Press)

This is showdown week in major college basketball.

By dusk Saturday night, two teams will have plucked the prize plums for 1969 in action at Louisville, Ky., and New York City.

Defending champion UCLA, with the great Lew Alcindor; Drake, Purdue and North Carolina go for the big prize at Louisville. In Thursday night's NCAA semifinals, Drake collides with UCLA and North Carolina battles Purdue.

Eight teams remain in the National Invitation Tournament in New York, including St. Peter's of New Jersey, Temple, Ohio University, Tennessee, South Carolina, Army, Louisville and Boston College.

St. Peters meets Temple and Ohio University takes on Tennessee tonight in the first of the NIT's quarter-final fireworks.

Finals in both tournaments are scheduled Saturday afternoon.

Beat Colorado State

Drake got its golden opportunity to try its luck against UCLA last Saturday when the Bulldogs tripped Colorado State University 84-77 in the Midwest Regional finals at Manhattan, Kan. UCLA, with Alcindor contributing 17 points, breezed past Santa Clara 90-52 in the Western Regionals at Los Angeles.

North Carolina and Purdue survived the Regionals in identical fashion—on 20-foot jump shots in the final seconds that brought defeat for their respective opponents.

The Tar Heels edged Davidson 87-85 on Charlie Scott's 20-footer at College Park, Md., in the Eastern Regionals. Purdue's Boilermakers nipped Marquette 75-73 on a similar field goal by All-American Rick Mount at Madison, Wis., in overtime in the Mideast Regionals.

Louisville remained in the NIT Sunday by wearing down Fordham 73-70, and Boston College advanced with a 78-62 triumph over Kansas. In last Saturday's first-round activity, South Carolina rolled over Southern Illinois 72-63 and Army disposed of Wyoming 51-49.

12-Game Streak

Drake will face giant-killer UCLA with a 12-game victory streak in the record books. Willie McCarter, who chipped in with 21 points in the conquest of CSU, doesn't hesitate to say he thinks the Bulldogs can beat the proud Bruins.

"That's the one we want, UCLA," McCarter said after the Bulldogs found out the Bruins were their next foe. "That's who we want to play."

UCLA is seeking its third straight national title, unprecedented in college basketball, and the Bruins would like nothing better than to snare it as the climax to Alcidor's illustrious career.

Wooden Sounds Warning

Johnny Wooden, the UCLA coach, sounded this warning:

"I think we're sharp again and ready mentally."

One second remained when Scott canned his winning jump shot for North Carolina after the Tar Heels had clung to the ball for more than the final 60 seconds. Scott's shot gave him 32 points for the see-saw struggle, 23 in the second half.

Mount regarded his 20-footer in Purdue's victory over Marquette as "the biggest shot I've ever made.' He collected 26 points. The regulation game had ended 63-63. Marquette once trailed by 11 points.

Saturday night's four regional consolations saw Kentucky squeeze by Miami, Ohio, 72-71; Duquesne down St. John's, N.Y., 75-72; Colorado thrash Texas A&M 97-82, and Weber State edge New Mexico State 58-56.

No Irish Luck For Goalies

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The luck of the Irish must have been riding with National Hockey League goaltenders Sunday night. They all came out of the biggest night of the season for shooters in one piece.

Boston tied a record, bunching eight goals in one period and running through two Toronto goalies in an 11-3 romp that set the tone. New York wore down some sensational goaltending by Roy Edwards with a 25-shot third-period barrage that produced four goals and a 6-4 victory over Detroit.

In other games, Oakland whacked Pittsburgh 7-2, Bobby Hull scored his 52nd and 53rd goals of the season in Chicago's 6-2 romp over Philadelphia and Minnesota edged St. Louis 3-2.

In Saturday's action, Montreal dropped Chicago 3-1, Toronto bombed Boston 7-4, St. Louis nipped Detroit 3-2, Los Angeles dropped Pittsburgh 3-1 and Philadelphia and Minnesota played to a 2-2 tie.

Derek Sanderson led the Bruins' assault with the three-goal hat trick and three assists while Phil Esposito, Boston point-making king, collected his 44th goal of the season and four assists, hiking his record total to 118 points.

The eight Boston goals in the second period matched a mark set by Detroit in 1944 and Esposito shattered Dickie Moore's total points record of 113 for regular season and playoff competition, set in 1959.

Ken Hodge had his 40th and 41st goals and rookie Garnet Bailey added a pair for Boston, which moved within three points of idle Montreal for the East Division lead.

Frank Mahovlich scored his 43rd and 44th goals of the season for Detroit and assisted on Gordie Howe's 40th and Alex Delvecchio's 23rd as the Red Wings' modern version of the Production Line ran its total points for the season to a record 230, breaking the mark of 226 established by Howe, Delvecchio and Ted Lindsay in 1955-56.

But the Rangers innundated Edwards with 57 shots and two goals by Ron Stewart sparked a third-period rally that gave New York the victory. Jean Ratelle also scored twice for New York.

Seven different players shared in Oakland's biggest offensive show of the season as the Seals opened a nine-point lead over Los Angeles and virtually cinched second place in the West Division.

No other station wagon can carry this tune.

If the Big Bands ever come back, they just might do it in a Volkswagen Station Wagon.

After all, what other wagon could take on 9 guys, instruments and 15 pieces of luggage at the same time?

What other wagon could do all that while averaging 23 miles to the gallon and using pints of oil instead of quarts?

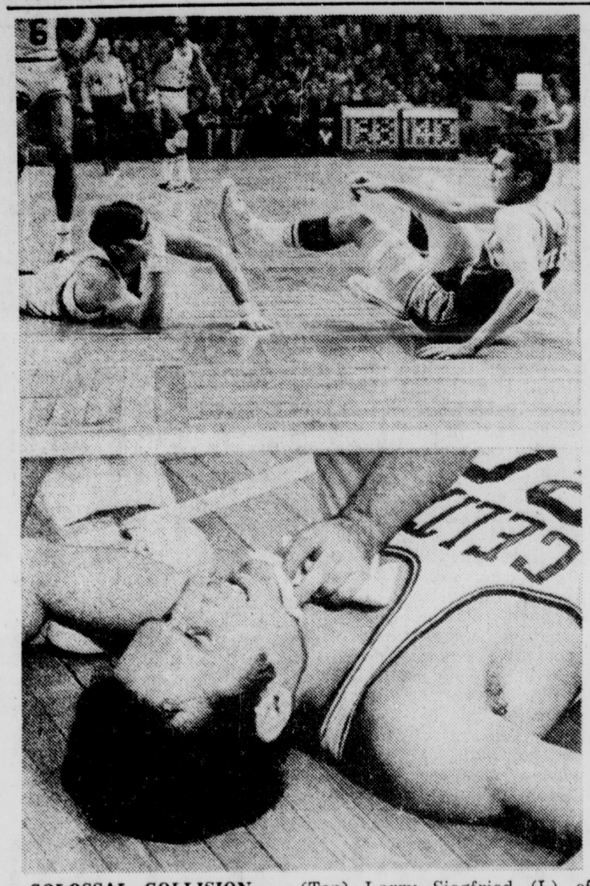

Where else could a piano player (with his piano and without the rest of the band) fit through a side door?

Or how about the bass giving out with a great big Blues number through a great big hole in the roof?

Then there's the winter circuit. (The VW is the only wagon around with rear engine traction and an engine that doesn't dig antifreeze nohow.)

Anyhow, if this sounds like your bag, get a Box.

Lakers Win In the West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Los Angeles' Big Three—Wilt Chamberlain, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West—took the Lakers to the summit, but when the time came to go over the top, Coach Bill Von Breda Kolff said: "Do it, Hewitt."

Rookie Bill Hewitt, the Lakers' No. 1 draft choice last year, led the way with 19 points Sunday afternoon in a 108-73 parade past Boston that gave Los Angeles the National Basketball Association Western Division crown.

Second place Atlanta edged Seattle 131-127 in overtime Sunday night, but the Hawks trail the Lakers by five games with just four to play.

San Diego topped Detroit 120-111 in the only other game on the NBA schedule.

In the American Basketball Association, Indiana mauled Minnesota 114-113, Denver whipped Oakland 131-119, Dallas took Kentucky 104-100 and Miami beat New York 116-103.

The Lakers flashed to a 55-36 halftime lead at Boston and went on to hand the Celtics their 34th setback of the season. With four games remaining, the defending NBA champs are two losses short of their 1955-club record.

Baylor scored 17 points, Mel Counts 15, West 14 and Chamberlain 11 for Los Angeles, but Von Breda Kolff was particularly happy with Hewitt's showing

"He has been a pleasant surprise," the coach said of the youngster from Southern California. "A lot of first draft choices aren't doing that well. Sometimes the problem is getting him ready to play. But he was ready today.

"Do it Hewitt! I like the sound of the phrase."

Lou Hudson scored nine of the 25 points in overtime, leading the Hawks past Seattle after they had blown a 19-point third quarter lead. Joe Caldwell also hit for 25 Atlanta points while Art Harris was high for the SuperSonics with 31-18 of them in the third period.

San Diego's victory over Chicago boosted the Rockets' fourth-place lead over the Bulls to 1½ games in their battle for the final playoff spot in the Western Division.

Don Kojis spearheaded San Diego with 34 points as the Rockets had seven players in double figures for the first time in their two-year history. Happy Hairston topped Detroit with 22 points.

Elvin Hayes, the leading scorer in the NBA, tallied 15 points for San Diego before being sidelined for the last 11 minutes with a muscle strain in his left leg. The injury was believed not serious.

KINGSTON — St. Catherine Laboure rallied from a 23-8 first quarter deficit to nip Immaculate Conception, 54-56, for the 1969 John A. Coleman High Spring Tournament championship Sunday at the Coleman gym.

St. Francis de Sales of Phoenicia defeated St. Mary's of Kingston, 46-32, for consolation honors.

In Saturday's semi-final action, Immaculates downed St. Francis, 54-44, and St. Catherine's squeezed by St. Mary's 46 to 43.

Skip Lyons, who scored 37 points in the two games for St. Catherine's, was voted the Most Valuable Player in the tournament.

Ten players were named to the tournament All Star team as follows by teams:

St. Catherine's—Skip Lyons, Nick Ascienzo.

Immaculate Conception—Dan Reinhard, Tony Darwak.

St. Francis — Milton Holsapple, Shorty Nuss.

St. Mary's — Dan Loeffler, Mike Dubill.

St. Peter's—Bill Zeeh.

Lyons scored nine of his 17 points in the second quarter to give St. Catherine's a 21-10 bulge and slice the Immaculate lead to 38-29. The eventual winners ground out a 13-12 edge in the third quarter leaving the teams three points apart (45-42) going into the stretch.

With 10 seconds left to play, Rick Sorenson missed the first shot of a 1-and-1 situation that could have tied the game. After St. Catherine's lost possession, IC had a final, desperation shot at the buzzer but a 25-foot jumper shot missed.

Tony Darwak, an All-Star pick, scored 20 points for IC, Sorenson finished with 18 and Reinhard with 13. Ascienzo reached double figures with 10 for St. Catherine's.

St. Catherine's build up a 25-16 lead against the strong St. Mary's defense and held off the challengers in the second half. Skip Lyons potted 20 points for St. Catherine's, mostly on the end of fast breaks. Loeffler scored 17 points for the losers, 10 in the first half. Mike Dubill hit 10.

Immaculate Conception outplayed St. Francis in the second half (36-26) after an 18-18 halftime deadlock.

Trophies were awarded to the first, second and third place teams. St. Mary's was awarded the Sportsmanship Trophy.

Monsanto Open Is Rained Out

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — The final round of the $100,000 Monsanto Open was postponed for 24 hours Sunday because of a heavy rain and although the decision interfered with a couple of scheduled exhibitions elsewhere it was generally greeted with a sigh of relief.

"Nobody likes a delay," said third round leader Jim Colbert. "But we've got to be realistic. After all that rain, the course would have been too wet to play even if the sun had come out."

The rain began Saturday afternoon while about half of the 71 man field was still out on the Pensacola Country Club course. It became heavier as Colbert was finishing up, let up later in the night, but then turned into a downpour Sunday morning.

PGA officials, anxious to continue play if at all possible, first set Sunday's starting time back a couple of hours in hopes that the weather might change; then threw in the towel at about 11 a.m. CST.

It began clearing a bit later in the day and play is now scheduled to resume at 9:30 a.m. CST today.

Russell Lashes Beaten Celtics

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtics player-coach Bill Russell gave his squad a 20-minute tongue lashing Sunday after a 35-point nationally televised licking by the Los Angeles Lakers.

Russell, who closeted himself from newsmen for more than 35 minutes after the game, declined to give details of his lengthy monologue: "You couldn't print it anyway."

He explained that unless the Celtics mend their ways in their next game, which is against the Chicago Bulls here Wednesday night, he will not hesitate to levy fines on the squad.

Russell said the principal causes of his team's breakdown were lack of "hustle and teamwork." He said the players' "attitude is something you've got to examine when you get the hell kicked out of you like that."

The big center said he had been serving as player coach under "absolute dictatorship, but today, it was not too benevolent."

Russell, who insisted none of the players had been fined yet, warned that he had them guessing as to the amounts of threatened fines unless their play improved markedly in the final four games of the season. "If something like this happens in the next game, it could be very expensive."

He characterized the Celtics as a 'nice, sweet, lovely bunch of guys—guys who think they can relax. You have to jolt them back to the facts of life—that we live in a hard, cold, commercial society."

Russell added that he chastised himself in the presence of the players for his own play and said, "We're the best team there is when we're playing together. But this is a team that will live together or die apart."

Sports Club Blanks German-American

BRONX

An enforced idleness of seven Sundays apparently has had little effect on the winning ways of the Kingston Sport Club in the Premier Division of the German-American Soccer Association.

The upstaters retained their league lead by blanking the German-American squad, 2-0, in a bitterly contested game at Throggs Neck Stadium.

The victory was the ninth against two losses and two ties for the Kickers, who were tied with Newark Sport Club at 18 points, going into Sunday's game. The win raised their point total to 20, a two-point margin over Newark which was idle.

Third place Hoboken shut out last place Shamrock, 5-0, to remain three points behind Kingston and Hungaria blanked Austria, 2-0, in the other game.

A muddy, soggy field and high winds turned the contest into a defensive struggle.

The Kickers didn't crash the scoring column until 43 minutes into the first half, when Gino Ventriglia caught the German-American goalie flat-footed on a breakaway shot off a fine pass by Reiner Schwebel.

German-American was awarded a penalty kick in the closing seconds of the half but Kingston goalie Bill Newmerzychky kicked it out in the lower corner of the goal.

Karl Von Borkolu scored Kingston's second goal with sensational 25-yarder into the left corner of the net at the 75-minute mark. It was a right-to-left blast in which the Hungarian goalie, who had his eye on Schwebel, was faked out of his shoes.

"Aside from these two brilliantly executed shots, it was a tough, gruelling game," said Coach Bob Graves of the Kickers. "The field was muddy and soggy and at one stage we were hit with a dust storm which held up play for a couple minutes."

The Kickers may have come up with a costly suspension when veteran Richie Lotze was removed from the game at the 80-minute mark after an altercation with a Hungarian defender. Both players were banished from the game and the teams finished with 10 players each.

"This could be a tough blow," said Graves. "But we will have Elliott Pobbi-Asare back with us in two weeks. Asare is completing a suspension that started last September.

The Kickers also lose the services of Lee Roberts for three weeks. The veteran ace is going to Europe with the State University College soccer squad of New Paltz.

Steve Kovalensko will be lost for the next several weeks as the result of a knee operation.

St. Mary's Tyros, CYO, Upstate Champions

POUGHKEEPSIE

St. Mary's Tyro Basketball team won the Upstate CYO Championship by overwhelming St. Peter's of Haverstraw 59-14 in the final game played at the Lourdes High School gym.

Walt Houghtaling paced the winners with 22 points and teammate Charlie Barton added 10 points. Roger Santango led the losers with 5 points.

St. Peter's jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first quarter. After what seemed to be a good contest for a quarter turned into a real rout as St. Mary's left no doubt about their superiority as they out-scored St. Peter's 48-7 over the next three quarters.

Records and statistics show that this team was a better team than the previous record holders, (the 1963 St. Mary's team).

This year's team won 15 and lost only 1, they scored the highest ever, 640 points, and Walt Houghtaling set a new individual record of 258 points for a season.

Dear Abby

Too Fond of Sis-in-law

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a husband who says there is nothing wrong with being overly friendly with his sister-in-law? He says the Eskimos do this. Is this true or should I tell him that he is crazy? I answer all his needs every time he asks me. Thank you very much.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Tell your husband that the Eskimos stopped that practice a long time ago, and that if you ever catch him so much as rubbing noses with another woman he'll get a freezing out like no Eskimo ever had.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 years old and I'm engaged to a man I'll call "Frank" who is 28. We have known each other a long time, but we have been engaged only two months. Before the engagement we didn't discuss having a family, which was a mistake.

Now Frank tells me that he would like to have four or five children. Maybe I'm selfish, but I don't want any.

Abby, I have absolutely no patience with children, and knowing myself as I do, I wouldn't make a very good mother.

Frank and I love each other, but this has become a big issue. Please don't tell me that I should have one, because I will feel different about my own child. I really don't want the work and responsibility of children. Maybe I'm peculiar, but I don't think they're worth it. So what is your advice?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: Tell Frank that unless he sees it your way, he'd better find another girl. I agree, you'd problably make a poor mother, but I admire your honesty.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Wants Marriage" that a common law marriage is as legal as one in which a minister has mumbled a few words over the couple. And a man is all wet if he thinks he can escape the responsibility of marriage by not going thru a ceremony. He has a legal duty to support the woman, and any children they may have. And the children will be considered legitimate, too!

If a man wants to get rid of a common law wife, he must divorce her in the courts, as there is no such thing as a "common law divorce." And if a man tries to give a woman the old line about a "trial" period of living together, it won't work because when a man and woman present themselves to the world as man and wife —they ARE! At least that's the way it is in Texas.

LAWYER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Thank you! And if your husband ever finds out who you are, you'll catch it for "practicing" law without a license.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is for "FURIOUS IN PRESCOTT, ARIZ." who suggested that housewives do their marketing early in the day so as not to crowd the "working wives":

I have to wait until my husband comes home from work before I do my marketing because we are a one-car family. So if I get in your way, please provide me with a second car and I will be glad to do my marketing in the morning just to accommodate you.

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY MARCH 18, 1969

ARIES (March 21- April 19): You may not have it all your way, but you gain plaudits. Pay greater attention to public relations. Mate or partner is not pleased with current conditions. Know this—be co-operative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some facts previously hidden come to light. You may find yourself middleman in dispute. Try not to show favoritism. Those who battle today could kiss and make up tomorrow. Remain neutral.

GEMINI May 21- June 20): Don't expect too much from friends. Some around you are unsettled, disturbed. Keep goal in sight. Don't be disturbed by those who are confused. Outline needs, budget.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Day features satisfying of curiosity. You learn the why of recent happenings. Not wise to embark upon journey unless absolutely necessary. Don't give up something for nothing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Strive for harmony at home. Confusion about whose turn it is could create friction. Be diplomatic. Set example. Cement ties of affection. Otherwise, an important delationship could end.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): One close to you may be overspending. Discussion on matter would seem to be in order. See persons, situations as they actually exist. Stop fooling yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Avoid tendency to be extravagant. Don't ask for too much, too soon. Accent on legal documents which require attention. Read fine print. Detect subtle nuances. Don't be caught with guard down.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Concentrate upon health, work and recreation. Means strive for balance. Some patterns change. But don't throw out the good with the bad. You are finishing a project.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): One you previously thought could do no wrong now grates your nerves. Day to assert your independence. Don't be anyone's door mat. Youngster could make excessive demands.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19): Don't push too hard in occupational area. Some at the top are unsettled, lack security. Know this and time moves accordingly. Means make presence known in unobstrusive manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are restless. But do permit logic to dominate. Otherwise, you waste time, energy. Relatives makes demands. Maintain balance, good humor — not so good for detail work.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Hold off on money commitment. You need additional facts. Someone who tries to sell somethinng sight unseen is covering up a lack. Know this; be patient. Protect assets.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are embarking upon new project. Do so with enthusiasm. You could meet person who plays significant role in your life. By April, your enthusiasm returns. Life begins to glow.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Moon opposition to Jupiter-Uranus portends break from past patterns. Famous person embarks on journey because marriage is on the rocks.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FLAT PAT: (Q.) Please don't tell me I'm silly, because I'm looking for an answer to something I've worried about for a long time. I've heard about a new treatment called silicone that enlarges your breasts. Would this help me?

I'm 15 and still flat. When my boy friend gets passionate I am very embarrassed.—Flat Pat in Philadelphia.

(A.) Silicone is not your answer, now or any time in the near future. It is in the experimental stage and there are many bothersome questions about it.

Your answer is to concentrate on the good points of your personality, appearance, and figure.

And you also need to concentrate on keeping your boy friend and yourself in line. If you don't you may wake up with real worries, much bigger than a flat chest.

SAD BEAUTY: (Q.) I need help fast! One of my favorite friends says she's going to commit suicide. She's beautiful and has never had any emotional trouble before, but is really upset over a breakup with a boy she loves.

What can I do? I would do anything to make her come to her senses again.—An Unhappy Boy.

(A.) If you describe this girl correctly, I believe that before long she will recover her spirits.

But you can do a number of things to speed her recovery. You are fond of her, so give her a rush yourself. Date her, compliment her, make her feel important, take her places, help her get her mind off the other boy.

A POSITIVE approach like this would be much better than long talks with her about her unhappiness.

We all face painful depressions at times in our lives. Good friends, such as you, make it easier for us to bounce back and start smiling again.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Oswald: "There is no scientific way to bid a freak hand. You let your conscience be your guide and hope for the best."

Jim: "I would be inclined to jump right to five clubs with the South hand. Maybe I would make it. Maybe I would get my opponents up to five spades, which I would double."

Oswald:" I think I would bid just the way this South did. I hope to be doubled at four clubs. This time South did very well with his bids."

Jim: "Yes, indeed! He ruffed the opening spade lead and looked over dummy without any particular zest. He didn't expect to be hurt at five clubs but but his chances of making the contract weren't good.

Oswald: "He was going to get to dummy once and clearly the best he could do with that one lead would be to play a heart and finesse his queen. Therefore, it was up to him to get away with the loss of just two trump tricks."

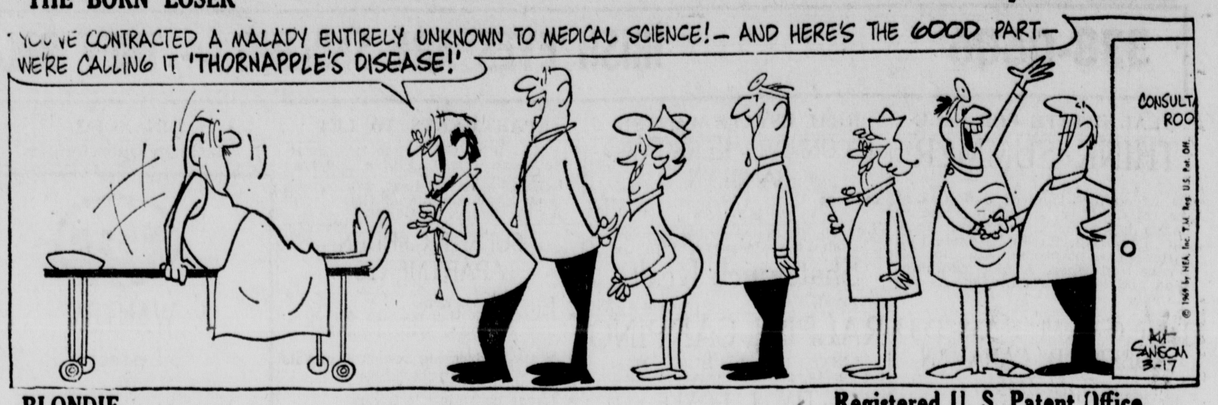

Jim: "After coming to this decision ,, South played his king of clubs. When West followed with the queen, South was down to only two tump losers. All that remained was the heart finesse and that worked."

Oswald: "If any of our readers think that the success of South's play was pure luck, we want to disillusion them. He gave himself the best chance."

Jim: "If clubs divided 2-2, it didn't matter. He would lose three club tricks. If they boke 3-1, the king play gave him a chance to pickle either the queen or the jack: a low play would give him a chance to pickle only the ace. Two chances are twice as good as one."

ABC Shuffles Summer Plans

ABC, the network which in past summers has depended almost entirely on re-runs of winter shows, will try another tack this year. If it works, it might start something with the competition.

Beginning in May, ABC will introduce a number of new entertainment series and also reshuffle the time periods of many others. The network estimates that about one-third of its hot weather offerings will consist of new material—new series or old series with fresh shows.

Cavett, Tom, Kings

Included in the plan are Dick Cavett's three-a-week series in prime time; A weekly variety hour starring Johnny Cash, and another with John Davidson. ABC's assortment of evening game and audience participation shows will continue with new programs—customary in those categories—and so will "This is Tom Jones" and "The King Sisters," both late-season starters.

Meanwhile, "Peyton Place," after all those agonizing years, will go into limbo with its final show in early June. Repeats of "The Guns of Will Sonnett" will occupy its old time spot until September, when it, too, goes to TV's Boot Hill.

Cavett's show—from 10 to 11 p.m. EST on Mondays, Tuesday and Friday—will replace "The Big Valley," "That's Life" and "Judd for the Defense." The first two have been canceled. "Judd," which returns next season, moves to an earlier time period on Friday nights.

ABC's second season, in general, has not worked out very well. "Turn On" which opened and closed in one night, established some kind of a TV record. "What's It All About, World?"—officially renamed "The Dean Jones Variety Hour" as of March 27—departs early in May. "Generation Gap" will slip away as quietly as it arrived. The shows, for the most part, produced dismal Nielsen ratings. "This is Tom Jones" and "Let's Make a Deal," which have survived haven't really done much better than the drop-outs.

Some Re-Runs

There will be re-runs, of course, and they are mostly dramatic shows and situation comedies that will return next season. With production costs climbing higher each year, repeat shows are almost an economic necessity to amortize show budgets.

It is highly unlikely, however pleasant it would be for audiences, that NBC and CBS will follow ABC's lead. ABC alone will bring in more new programs next season than the other two networks combined. So on two network channels there will be the usual variety show replacements—and an occasional British import like "The Saint" but mostly it will be just another summer of twice-told tales.

KOREAN AIR DROP — Members of the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N. C., who had left there some 50 hours previously on the longest (8,500 miles) paradrop in history, land on Korean soil today. The airdrop climaxed a joint U. S.-Korean military exercise called Focus Retina. (UPI RADIOPHOTO).

Reds Lose 109 in 'Human Wave'

SAIGON (UPI)—A Viet Cong battalion 600 men strong attacked a Thai outpost guarding Saigon is human waves but was beaten back in hand-to-hand combat, losing 109 men dead, military spokesmen said today.

The battle 20 miles east of Saigon Sunday was one of three unsuccessful Communist ground thrusts against allied outposts astride infiltration routes to the city. In the two others, U.S. soldiers killed 39 guerrillas at a loss of 10 killed and 15 wounded.

Weathering one of their major combat tests like veterans, the Thai soldiers escaped the bayonet fighting with two killed and 19 wounded, war communiques said.

Umbrella of Fire

The Viet Cong sprang from the night under an umbrella of mortar fire and in waves tried to overrun the allied base. They got inside the barbed wire perimeter but broke under Thai counterattacks and heavy U.S. air and artillery bombardment.

The 22nd day of the nationwide Communist offensive brought 30 overnight barrages into allied towns and camps From Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh proclaimed the offensive a success and exhorted his men to keep fighting.

Over-all losses in the shellings were light, spokesmen said, but 10 civilians died and 26 others were wounded in a 15-round rocket barrage into a refugee camp at noon today near Da Nang on the northern coast.

In two related incidents concerning Laos:

—U.S. sources said more than 10 U.S. warplanes have been shot down over Laos since the bombing of that neutral nation was intensified after the halt in bombing of North Vietnam last Nov. 1. The sources said between 30 and 40 warplanes are hitting Communist supply and troop targets in Laos daily.

Marine Camp Shelled

—Communist gunners, possibly firing from Laos, shelled a U.S. Marine camp in the northwest corner of South Vietnam, causing what headquarters called light losses. Laos was six miles to the west and the artillery was the type that ranges nine miles. It came from the west and the Marines fired back, spokesmen said.

South of Saigon, a 9,000-man U.S. counteroffensive aimed at disrupting Communist designs on Saigon killed 131 guerrillas in six weekend clashes southwest of the capital. The Americans lost two men wounded in the drive, Operation Speedy Express, which continued today.

Included in the targets of overnight rocket and mortar barrages were three U.S. division headquarters camps, two of them on Saigon's outskirts.

The capital itself was spared attack. The fourth Communist rocket barrage into Saigon of the offensive wounded one South Vietnamese early Sunday. The ground attack expected by U.S. intelligence headquarters had not materialized.

Jump Opens War Games

YOJU, South Korea (AP) — Led by a two-star general and a Medal of Honor sergeant, 1,320 U.S. paratroopers leaped into South Korea today at the climax of an 8,500-mile trans-Pacific assault operation. It began five days of war games called Focus Retina.

The men of the 82nd Airborne Division were flown from Ft. Bragg, N.C., to the muddy reaches of the North Han River, 35 miles south of Seoul, in what the U.S. military said was the longest air operation in history.

C141 Starlifter jet transports ferried the first batch of 720 soldiers into the operations area from Okinawa, two and a half hours away. Delayed 24 hours by a snowstorm here Sunday, they completed the journey from North Carolina in close to 55 hours. Maj. Gen. John R. Deane Jr., their commander, and Sgt. 1. C. Charles D. Morris, who won the Medal of Honor in Vietnam, were the first to hit the silk as the gray parachutes dotted the sky.

While the airdrops were taking place, North Korea called a special meeting of the Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjom to demand the exercise be canceled. It was the second North Korean protest in a week.

The U.S. delegate, Maj. Gen. James B. Knapp, rejected the North Korean demand. In a reference to a sharp increase of hostile North Korean action over the weekend in which seven Americans and a South Korean were killed, he said:

"Your naked aggression convinces the United Nations Command that exercises such as Foucus Retina will continue to be necessary to enable the U.N. Command to defeat aggression whenever and wherever it may come."

Less than 15 minutes after the men from Okinawa landed, another 600 men of the 82nd, moved to Korea several days ago, jumped in to join them

Bonesteel watching the drop that the exercise demonstrated "magnificent preplanning" and was a "vivid demonstration" of the capability of the U.S. Strike Command to move to trouble spots anywhere in the world on short notice.

After the paratroopers secure a bridgehead and defend it against "aggressor" attacks, 7,000 troops from the U.S. 7th Infantry Division based in Korea will launch a series of assaults that will end Friday when objectives are seized.

At Panmunjom, North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-sun charged that U.N. troops fired first in the border incident Saturday. He said that this and other armed clashes along the demilitarized zone as well as the Focus Retina exercise were part of U.S. preparations for a new war in Korea.

"Your allegation is a particularly deceitful mispresentation of the truth," Knapp replied.

One American soldier was killed and three others, including one Korean soldier, were wounded. The three wounded and four more Americans died when a medical evacuation helicopter crashed shortly after takeoff from the area in which the shooting took place.

Lindsay Word Due

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mayor John V. Lindsay was expected to announce formally Tuesday he plans to run for re-election, confirming reports that have been circulating for more than a month.

A source close to the mayor said today Lindsay told his family and his campaign manager, Richard Aurelio, during the weekend that he had made up his mind to run.

The mayor's wife, Mary, and many of his close associates have been reported urging him not to run because of the loss in popularity he has suffered in recent months, notably because of last fall's prolonged teachers' strike. He also was criticized for the Sanitation Department's long delay in removing snow after a storm last month.

Lindsay has conceded that he faces an uphill fight in the June primary—in which he will be opposed by two conservative Republicans—and in the November election. A number of Democrats are contending for their party's nomination.

The mayor's Republican rivals are State Sen. John J. Marchi and Assemblyman Vito Battista. Lindsay has the support of the state's three most powerful Republicans, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sens. Charles E. Goodell and Jacob K. Javits.
